

Senate Truce Plan Blocked Dutch, Indonesia Reach Guinea Accord

Jakarta Will Get Control Next May 1

Formula Provides
U.N. Stewardship
For Nine Months

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations announced Tuesday night that Indonesia and the Netherlands had reached a preliminary agreement on how to transfer authority over West New Guinea, now held by the Dutch and claimed by the Indonesians.

A spokesman made the announcement for Acting Secretary-General U Thant after Thant had conferred for 40 minutes with Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio.

It climaxed efforts for a settlement of the dispute that Thant has exerted since early this year, and came after talks in Washington between the two governments in March and July.

Official Talks Arranged

The spokesman said: "Acting Secretary-General U Thant is gratified that a preliminary agreement has been reached by the Indonesian and the Netherlands representatives in regard to the modalities of the transfer of authority over West New Guinea."

The spokesman added: "The secretary-general is optimistic about the final outcome of the official negotiations, which will take place under his auspices about the middle of August."

The preliminary talks have been mediated by Ellsworth Bunker, a U.S. diplomat appointed by Thant.

The Washington talks dealt in their latest phase with a plan for settlement that Bunker put forward in April.

Transfer Schedule

Reports from the Hague said the preliminary agreement involved revisions of this plan to the effect that there would be a symbolic raising of the Indonesian flag on Aug. 17 and that Indonesia would get full control from the United Nations next May 1.

Under the compromise settlement, West New Guinea will be placed under United Nations stewardship for nine months.

Dutch authorities will phase out their administration during the first half of this period and Indonesia will begin moving in in the second five months.

Kennedy's Tax Bill Revamped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee finally completed work on President Kennedy's battered tax revision bill Tuesday after revamping it so it will cost the Treasury an estimated $750 million a year.

As the measure cleared the House in March, it was figured to increase revenues by $120 million annually on balance.

The bill was approved 9 to 2, but Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said numerous individual views and minority statements will be filed with the majority report, including one by him.

In its final committee-approved form, the measure contained a modified version of the key section asked by Kennedy when he submitted the bill to Congress last year—an incentive to U.S. business to modernize its plants.

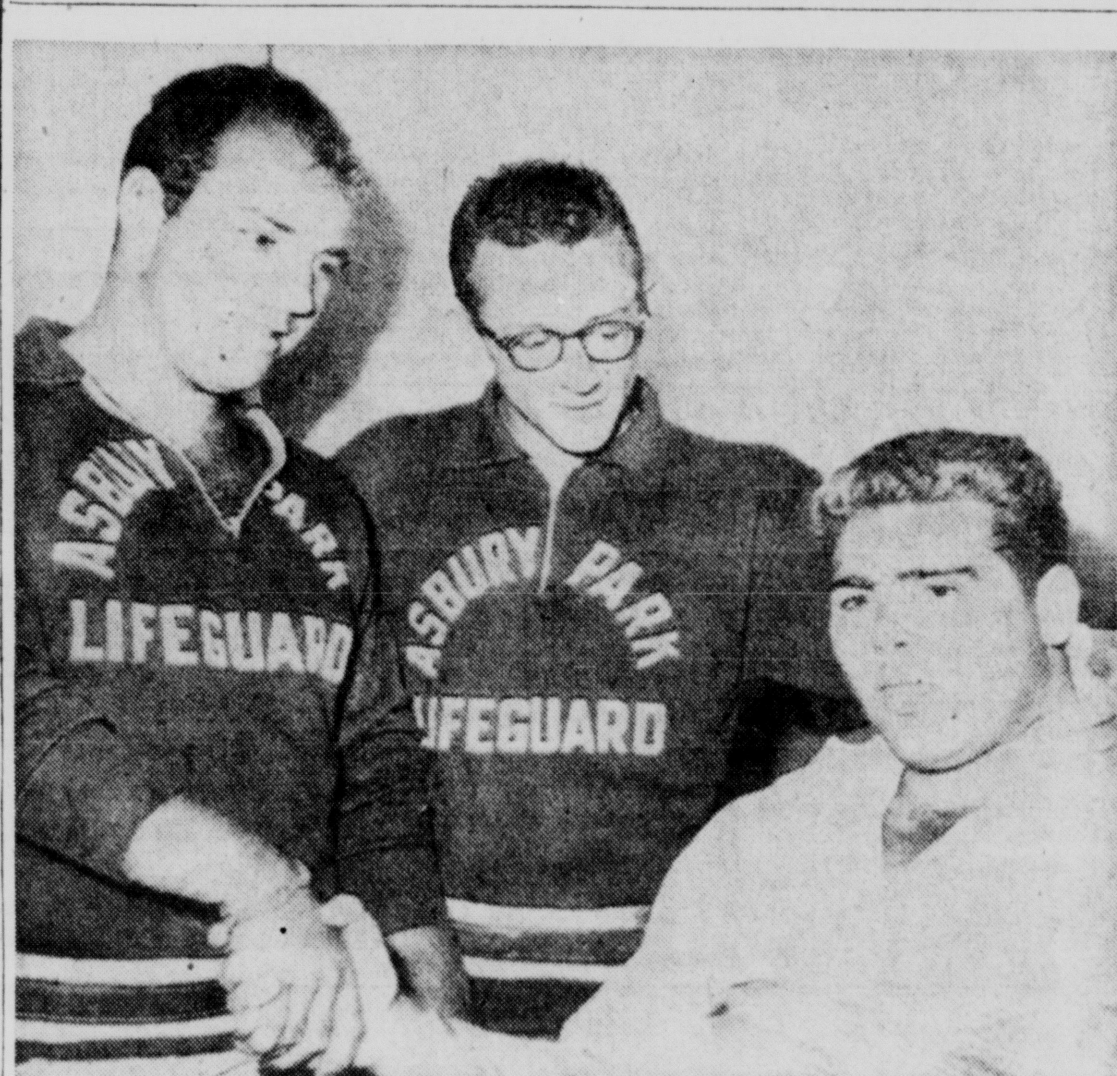

Under this investment credit provision, companies would be allowed to deduct from their taxes as much as 7 per cent of their expenditures for new machinery and equipment.

However, the committee eliminated the chief revenue-producing feature which the President asked to pay for the investment credit—a withholding plan on dividend and interest income.

Life Guard Survives Ordeal

Life guard Garrett Giberson, 20, is visited by fellow life guards Bill Knight (left) and Ray Scharf in hospital yesterday at Asbury Park, N. J. Rescue efforts by Knight and Scharf freed Giberson from suction of drain in city swimming pool. He was caught in rushing waters as he and Knight removed a drain cover to speed water flow while cleaning the pool. Giberson was submerged from six to eight minutes. When pair couldn't free victim, Knight climbed to drain valve to shut off water while Scharf remained with Giberson.

TV Star Will Leave Arizona For Abortion

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sherry Finkbine is planning to leave Arizona for an abortion, but just when and where she will go for the operation is being kept secret.

Her teacher husband would say only: "We have concluded to seek help in a more favorable legal climate."

The pretty 30-year-old, who has a Phoenix television kiddie program, fears birth of a malformed child because she took tranquilizers containing thalidomide in the early weeks of her 2½-month pregnancy. The drug is blamed for thousands of armless and legless babies born in Europe, Australia and Canada.

Mrs. Finkbine, mother of four healthy youngsters, was thwarted Monday in her attempt to get legal approval for an abortion in Arizona.

That state's law permits abortion only if the expectant mother's life is in peril. Mrs. Finkbine asked the Superior Court to say this was her case, but her plea was dismissed on a technicality without getting a hearing.

At first, there were hints that the Finkbines might go ahead with the abortion in Phoenix. But after a night session with doctors, lawyers and trustees at Good Samaritan Hospital, the young couple disclosed a decision to go elsewhere.

Since all 50 states have laws prohibiting abortion, there was speculation the couple would go to another country.

Doctor Estimates Drug Will Deform 7,000 Babies

NEW YORK (AP)—A woman doctor at Johns Hopkins University estimates that the number of babies deformed by the drug thalidomide will rise to 6,000 in West Germany and 1,000 in other countries.

Dr. Helen B. Taussig, known as the "blue baby doctor," wrote in Scientific American magazine that "it is essential to improve both the techniques for testing and the legal controls over the release of new drugs."

"It happens that thalidomide-containing drugs did not reach the market in the United States," she wrote. "This was because of a lucky combination of circumstances and the alertness of a staff physician at the Food and Drug Administration—not because

Water Fountain Produces Flame

NEW YORK (AP)—A water fountain in Manhattan's Herald Square Park gave thirsty strollers quite a surprise Tuesday.

They got gassed instead of watered.

One man finally reported it. A policeman, figuring the man was a bit gassed himself, didn't believe it. He struck a match. He believed it then.

A spurt of flame shot up about six inches.

Utility crews were summoned and dug down to repair a leaky gas pipe which was letting gas escape into the water fountain.

Judge Blocks Pan Am Strike

NEW YORK (UPI)—A federal judge Tuesday issued a restraining order blocking a threatened Friday midnight strike against Pan American World Airways by its maintenance workers.

District Court Judge Walter Bruchhausen said his restraining order would be effective until Monday. But he also said that he would hear motions for a preliminary injunction on Thursday.

The Transport Workers Union (TWU), representing nearly 10,000 Pan American employees, had announced it would strike Friday midnight.

Pan American's attorneys successfully sought the restraining order. Pan Am Vice President for Industrial Relations, E. M. Gould, said that union charges that the airline had refused to bargain in good faith were groundless.

Britain, Malaya Sign Agreement For New Nation

LONDON (AP)—Britain and Malaya agreed Tuesday night to create a federation of Malaysia, a new nation on the South China Sea with 10 million people, rich in such natural resources as rubber, tin and crude oil.

It will include the peninsula of Malaya and the densely populated island port of Singapore on one side, and 450 miles across the sea, Brunei, Sarawak and North Borneo on the big island of Borneo. All were old bastions of the British empire.

Malaya's prime minister, Tunku Abdul Rahman, made the announcement after a meeting with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. It climaxed 15 days of negotiation in London.

Rahman and Macmillan signed the agreement. Singapore's Premier Lee Kuan Yew, who has toured neutralist nations to explain the idea of federation, was present.

The tunku, a strong anti-Communist, has been the moving force for federation. It will create a nation combining the natural resources of Malaya and Borneo with the commercial nerve center of Singapore, lying in a crescent across the trade waters of the South China Sea.

Federation also could be viewed as a counter-measure to Indonesian expansion (part of Borneo belongs to Indonesia) and to Communist China's influence in that area of Southeast Asia. Singapore, a self-governing state in the British commonwealth, with about 1.6 million people—1.2 million of them Chinese—could be the sore point in the federation plan. Red Chinese in Singapore fear a crackdown on Communists in a federation headed by the tunku, and left-wing opposition to the scheme has increased.

Estes Theft Trial Scheduled Sept. 24

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—State Dist. Judge Otis Dunagan has set the trial of the theft of the car of the late Sen. Billie Sol Estes for Sept. 24.

The judge announced the date on Tuesday.

The trial was transferred here from Pecos, Estes' home town, after failure to obtain a jury there.

Estes is also under federal indictment for fraud and under state and congressional investigations. Estes is charged by the state on four counts of theft by fraud involving manipulations of mortgages on fertilizer tanks which state and federal agencies say do not exist.

Way Paved For Algeria Unity Talks

ALGIERS (AP)—Ahmed Ben Bella's troops were reported Tuesday to have freed Mohammed Boudiaf, clearing away the latest obstacle to unity talks among feuding Algerian leaders.

Ben Bella and Boudiaf are rival deputy premiers in the provisional government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Boudiaf was captured Monday while visiting his home town of M'sila, about 110 miles southeast of Algiers, and spirited to Batna, a high plateau trading center 20 miles southeast of this capital. He was freed at Batna.

Representatives of the warring factions joined efforts to force his release and Mohammed Khider, a special envoy from Ben Bella's Oran headquarters, announced that these efforts have been successful.

Khider said that Boudiaf would arrive in Algiers by Wednesday at the latest. He was a companion of Boudiaf in French imprisonment for several years of the 7½-year Algerian Nationalist rebellion against France.

Thus, barring unexpected last-minute developments, discussions can begin.

The talks are aimed at reaching a compromise on Ben Bella's seven-man Political Bureau, which he wants to become Algeria's top policy-making agency. Various ministers oppose the bureau, objecting to its composition.

Compromise proposals have been suggested to the three feuding factions—the Ben Bella group, the government of Premier Ben Khedda and the Tizi Ouzou camp led by Boudiaf and Deputy Premier Belkacem bkrim.

Procrastination and continuation of the crisis have been increasing Algeria's political, administrative and economic chaos. All politicians are conscious of it and appear more and more determined to find a way out.

There was talk of forming a temporary military committee that would run the country pending general elections. The committee would consist of the six wilaya (zone) commanders and would have at its head an aging Berber, Col. Mohand Ould Hadj.

His nomination—if approved—could win over the Berbers in Algeria's Kabylie Mountains, who do not approve of Ben Bella's bid for power.

Colombia Quake Toll Reaches 40

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—The official death toll from Colombia's worst earthquake in 10 years rose to 40 Tuesday.

Authorities said casualties and damage were far less than originally feared from the violence of the temblor.

Five more deaths confirmed Tuesday swelled the government's previous estimate of 35 killed. However, local newspapers said their count of fatalities might reach as high as 50. All sources agreed that some 300 persons were injured in the prolonged earthquake shock.

In the city of Pereira, for 99 years a bulwark of the Roman Catholic Church in Colombia, Mayor Mario Delgado Echeverry decreed three days of mourning. There were 15 confirmed dead in Pereira from the collapse of a six-story factory. Another 123 persons were injured.

Six women were killed and five injured in Cali when the roof of the Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church caved in. Two new deaths were reported from isolated towns in Caldas Province.

Russ Threat To Down U.S. 'Copter Disclosed

BERLIN, Wednesday, Aug. 1 (UPI)—Russia threatened to shoot down a U.S. Army helicopter flying over East Berlin last Monday and the American mission here replied it planned "to continue to fly in accordance with our rights," an American spokesman said today.

The Russians did not carry out their threat and the American helicopter completed its mission without further incident, the spokesman said.

He said the helicopter was on a "routine flight" over East Berlin and that it had "filed its flight plan in accordance with the four-power agreement before it took off."

Gov. Faubus Takes Lead In Arkansas

Segregation Figure
Bids For 5th Term
In Demo Primary

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Gov. Orval Faubus took an early and widening lead Tuesday night in his bid for an unprecedented fifth term against five opponents in the Arkansas Democratic primary.

Early returns shortly after the polls closed at 8:30 p.m. EDT gave Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., an almost 2-to-1 edge over conservative Democrat Winston Chandler.

With 66 of 2,351 precincts reporting, Faubus had 916 votes to 574 for his nearest opponent, former Gov. Sid McMath, his political mentor. Third was U.S. Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., a segregationist, with 184. Three other candidates had scattered votes.

The segregation issue that touched off violence in Little Rock was largely ignored in the campaign and the main issue an estimated 375,000 to 400,000 Ark. term. Faubus already is dean of Arkansas governors.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was fighting for a fourth term in a primary race against Winston Chandler, a Little Rock conservative. It was Fulbright's first primary fight since 1944 when he first won the office.

Victory in the Democratic primaries is as good as election in Arkansas.

The weather was hot and skies partly cloudy. Showers in some areas were holding down the vote, although hot local races were bringing above average numbers to the polls in others.

40 Inmates Riot At D.C. Institution

The Rev. Donald Sheely, the center chaplain, was struck on the head as he tried to quiet the men. He was not seriously injured.

Donald Clemmer, director of the 2-year-old institution, said the trouble began while the 300 inmates of the center awaited the call to their afternoon duties. It ended when Clemmer met with five of the ringleaders and agreed to some of their demands.

Armed guards in the center's red brick towers trained weapons on the rioters, but no shots were fired.

Clemmer said three of the five ringleaders were members of the Black Muslim sect, a Negro group that preaches Negro supremacy. The ringleaders, he said, complained that pork was used in cooking vegetables in violation of Black Muslim bans on the eating of pork. Clemmer said he agreed to cook all vegetables without pork fat.

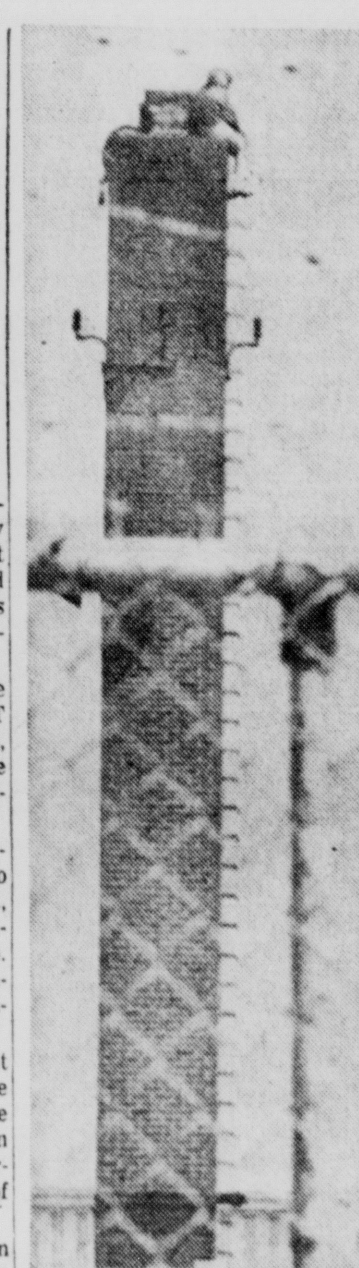

An announcement at the time said there were no injuries and no nuclear explosion.

Eisenhower Proposes International University

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower suggested Tuesday creation of an international university to serve, with truth and objectivity, as a clearing house for world thinking and teaching and learning in the vast field of human relations.

Peace and security would be served, said the former president, who held there is excuse for those who label the current period as the most shocking and the most brutal in modern history.

An educator himself as president of Columbia University from 1948 to 1952, Eisenhower presented his proposal in an address before the 11th assembly of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession. More than 400 delegates and observers from almost 80 nations were on hand.

"SIT-UP" STRIKE

Two inmates of the Federal Correctional Institution for Women on Terminal Island, Calif., huddle atop 50-foot smokestack where they climbed Monday night in what officials said was an attempt to gain attention for minor complaints. No effort will be made to bring them down—"we'll let their appetites do it," a guard said.

U.S. Indicates High Altitude Tests Still On

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. atomic officials indicated Tuesday that they plan to continue high altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific.

Although the final decision still rests with President Kennedy, an official announcement said: "Some weeks will be needed to repair the launching site and prepare it for the remaining high altitude tests of the Dominic series."

There had been speculation the experiments might be discontinued after three failures in four tries.

The third abortive attempt occurred last Wednesday, when a Thor rocket and its nuclear warhead were intentionally destroyed on the launching pad at Johnston Island.

There is only one launching pad on Johnston Island. Officials indicated it might take eight weeks or longer to repair the damage inflicted by last Wednesday's destruction.

The booster rocket and its nuclear warhead were destroyed on the pad when a mechanical failure was detected shortly before blastoff.

An announcement at the time said there were no injuries and no nuclear explosion.

Compromise Move Killed By GOP Veto

Democrats' Efforts
To Patch Up Feud,
Halt Talkfest Fail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats, deeply split over a communications satellite bill, tried to patch up their feud and end a five-day filibuster Tuesday night, but their efforts were stymied by the objection of a lone Republican.

A long day marked by a re-sounding clash between two top Democrats ended with the Senate recessing at 10:10 p.m. until noon Wednesday.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic majority leader, tried to end the long wrangle by proposing that the bill be sent to the Foreign Relations Committee with the stipulation that it be taken up again on the floor next Tuesday.

This would have had the effect of shelving the bill for a week. The Senate could have conducted other business in the meantime. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., who led the stalling tactics against the space communications bill, agreed to Mansfield's proposal.

Goldwater, Tower Object

However, the action required unanimous consent of the Senate and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., registered an objection. In a similar move a short time later, it was Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., who raised an objection.

As in other Mansfield moves involving the filibuster, the compromise proposal had the backing of Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., and other GOP leaders.

The communications bill, which would set up a private corporation to handle space communications such as those made possible by the new satellite, Telstar, has passed the House. Morse and other liberal Democrats contend the government should control space communications.

The second time the Mansfield compromise came up—resulting in Tower's objection—the majority leader had proposed a 10-day shelving period for the bill.

Some Republicans had voiced fears the 10-day interim would be used to bring up an administration-supported farm bill and insisted the leadership should file a debate-limiting cloture petition to force a decision on the communications bill with around-the-clock sessions.

Republicans Back Cloture

Mansfield and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the GOP minority leader, were armed with a cloture petition signed by more than a score of senators.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, said that "almost all" of the 35 Republicans would support a cloture petition if the Democrats promise to push it to a final vote.

He told a news conference after a meeting of the policy group that the Republicans don't want to support the motion to shut off debate if the bill is then to be shunted aside for other business.

Earlier in the day, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., challenged the veracity of the Senate's two top Democrats and rejected their future leadership in an explosive clash over the bill.

Targets of his outburst were Humphrey and Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader.

"I do not believe the majority leader," Morse said at one point. He also took sharp issue with Humphrey's account of comments he made about the threat to reelection of senators unless action is speeded up on the stalled legislation.

Mansfield fought back angrily. He accused Morse and his associates who are filibustering against the bill of "tactics that are delaying and dilatory."

Jackie And Caroline To Vacation In Italy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced Tuesday that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and her 4-year-old daughter, Caroline, will leave Aug. 7 for a vacation in Italy.

The First Lady and her party have booked passage aboard a regular Pan American commercial plane that flies non-stop from New York's Idlewild Airport to Rome.

Senate Truce Plan Blocked Dutch, Indonesia Reach Guinea Accord

Formula Provides
For Nine Months

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations announced Tuesday night that Indonesia and the Netherlands had reached a preliminary agreement on how to transfer authority over West New Guinea, now held by the Dutch and claimed by the Indonesians.

A spokesman made the announcement for Acting Secretary-General U Thant after Thant had conferred for 40 minutes with Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio.

It climaxed efforts for a settlement of the dispute that Thant has exerted since early this year, and came after talks in Washington between the two governments in March and July.

Official Talks Arranged

The spokesman said: "Acting Secretary-General U Thant is gratified that a preliminary agreement has been reached by the Indonesian and the Netherlands representatives in regard to the modalities of the transfer of authority over West New Guinea."

The spokesman added: "The secretary-general is optimistic about the final outcome of the official negotiations, which will take place under his auspices about the middle of August."

The preliminary talks have been mediated by Ellsworth Bunker, a U.S. diplomat appointed by Thant.

The Washington talks dealt in their latest phase with a plan for settlement that Bunker put forward in April.

Transfer Schedule

Reports from the Hague said the preliminary agreement involved revisions of this plan to the effect that there would be a symbolic raising of the Indonesian flag on Aug. 17 and that Indonesia would get full control from the United Nations next May 1.

Under the compromise settlement, West New Guinea will be placed under United Nations stewardship for nine months.

Dutch authorities will phase out their administration during the first half of this period and Indonesia will begin moving in in the second five months.

Kennedy's Tax Bill Revamped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee finally completed work on President Kennedy's battered tax revision bill Tuesday after revamping it so it will cost the Treasury an estimated $750 million a year.

As the measure cleared the House in March, it was figured to increase revenues by $120 million annually on balance.

The bill was approved 9 to 2 but Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., said numerous individual provisions and minority statements will be filed with the majority report, including one by him.

In its final committee-approved form, the measure contained a modified version of the key section asked by Kennedy when he submitted the bill to Congress last year—an incentive to U.S. business to modernize its plants.

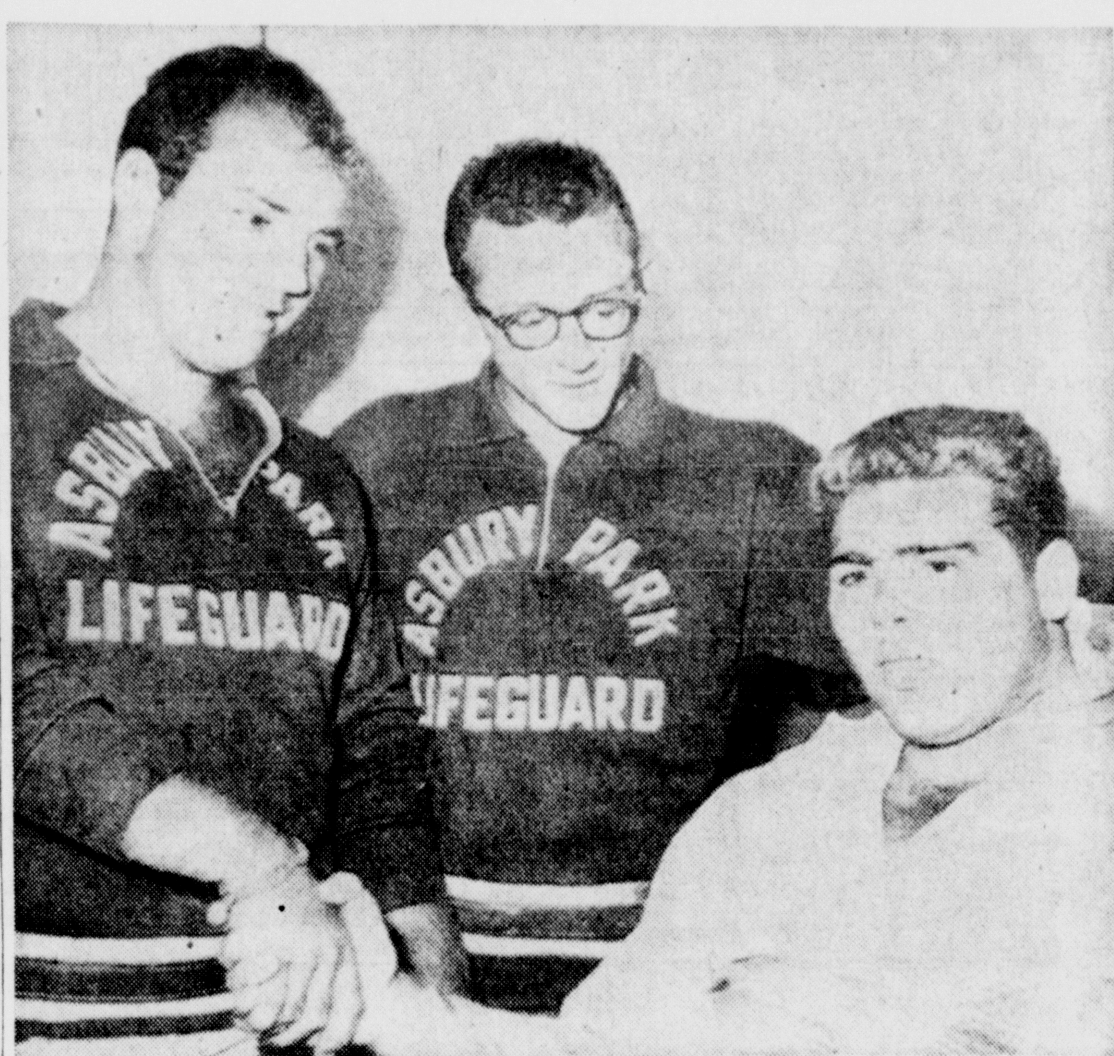

Under this investment credit provision, companies would be allowed to deduct from their taxes as much as 7 per cent of their expenditures for new machinery and equipment.

However, the committee eliminated the chief revenue-producing feature which the President asked to pay for the investment credit—a withholding plan on dividend and interest income.

The drug was developed in West Germany.

"If thalidomide had been developed in this country, I am convinced that it would easily have found wide distribution before its terrible power to cause deformity had become apparent," she wrote.

Dr. Taussig said none of the untoward developments of the drug could have been anticipated when the William S. Merrell Co. of Cincinnati, Ohio, applied to the Food and Drug Administration in September 1960 to market the drug.

"Clearance was delayed," she continued, "because the initial submission of papers was found to be incomplete."

Britain, Malaya Sign Agreement For New Nation

LONDON (AP)—Britain and Malaya agreed Tuesday night to create a federation of Malaysia, a new nation on the South China Sea with 10 million people, rich in such natural resources as rubber, tin and crude oil.

It will include the peninsula of Malaya and the densely populated island port of Singapore on one side and, 450 miles across the sea, Brunei, Sarawak and North Borneo on the big island of Borneo. All were old bastions of the British empire.

Malaya's prime minister, Tunku (Prince) Abdul Rahman, made the announcement after a meeting with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. It climaxed 15 days of negotiation in London.

Rahman and Macmillan signed the agreement. Singapore's Premier Lee Kuan Yew, who has toured neutralist nations to explain the idea of federation, was present.

The tunku, a strong anti-Communist, has been the moving force for federation. It will create a nation combining the natural resources of Malaya and Borneo with the commercial nerve center of Singapore, lying in a crescent across the trade waters of the South China Sea.

Federation also could be viewed as a counter-measure to Indonesian expansion (part of Borneo belongs to Indonesia) and to Communist China's influence in that area of Southeast Asia.

Singapore, a self-governing state in the British commonwealth, with about 1.6 million people—12 million of them Chinese—could be the sore point in the federation plan. Red Chinese in Singapore fear a crackdown on Communists in a federation headed by the tunku, and left-wing opposition to the scheme has increased.

Estes Theft Trial
Scheduled Sept. 24

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—State Dist. Judge Otis Dunagan has set the Billie Sol Estes theft trial for Sept. 24.

The judge announced the date on Tuesday.

The trial was transferred here from Pecos, Estes' home town, after failure to obtain a jury there.

Estes is also under federal indictment for fraud and under state and congressional investigations.

Estes is charged by the state on four counts of theft by fraud and that it had "filed its flight plan in accordance with the four power agreement before it took off."

Gov. Faubus Takes Lead In Arkansas

Segregation Figure
Bids For 5th Term
In Demo Primary

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI)—Gov. Orval Faubus took an early and widening lead Tuesday night in his bid for an unprecedented fifth term against five opponents in the Arkansas Democratic primary.

Early returns shortly after the polls closed at 8:30 p.m. EDT gave Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., an almost 2-to-1 edge over conservative Democrat Winston Chandler.

With 66 of 2,351 precincts reporting, Faubus had 916 votes to 574 for his nearest opponent, former Gov. Sid McMath, his political mentor. Third was U.S. Rep. Dale Alford, D-Ark., a segregationist, with 184. Three other candidates had scattered votes.

The segregation issue that touched off violence in Little Rock was largely ignored in the campaign and the main issue an estimated 375,000 to 400,000 Ark. term. Faubus already is dean of Arkansas governors.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was fighting for a fourth term in a primary race against Winston Chandler, a Little Rock conservative. It was Fulbright's first primary fight since 1944 when he first won the office.

Victory in the Democratic primaries is as good as election in Arkansas.

The weather was hot and skies partly cloudy. Showers in some areas were holding down the vote, although hot local races were bringing above average numbers to the polls in others.

40 Inmates Riot At D.C. Institution

The Rev. Donald Sheely, the center chaplain, was struck on the head as he tried to quiet the men. He was not seriously injured.

Donald Clemmer, director of the 2-year-old institution, said the trouble began while the 300 inmates of the center awaited the call to their afternoon duties. It ended when Clemmer met with five of the ringleaders and agreed to some of their demands.

Armed guards in the center's red brick towers trained weapons on the rioters, but no shots were fired.

Clemmer said three of the five ringleaders were members of the Black Muslim sect, a Negro group that preaches Negro supremacy.

The ringleaders, he said, complained that pork was used in cooking vegetables in violation of Black Muslim bans on the eating of pork. Clemmer said he agreed to cook all vegetables without pork fat.

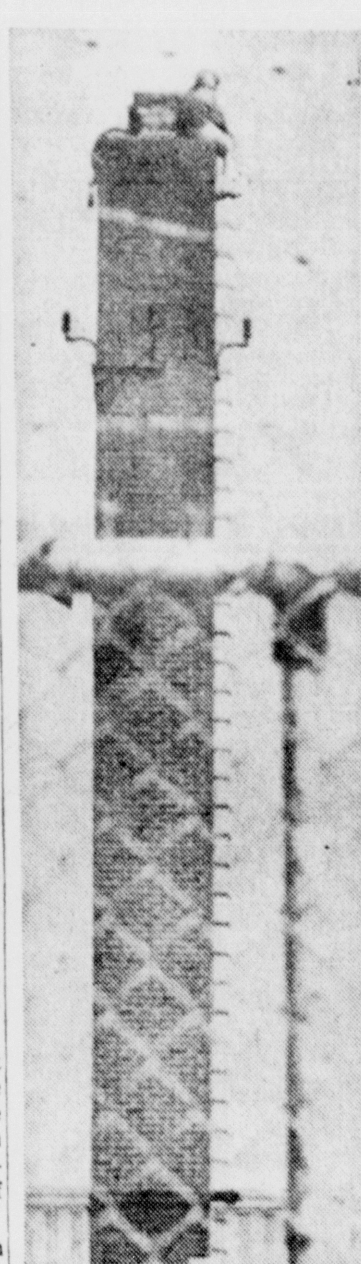

Eisenhower Proposes International University

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower suggested Tuesday creation of an international university to serve, with truth and objectivity, as a clearing house for world thinking and teaching and learning in the vast field of human relations.

Peace and security would be served, said the former president, who held there is excuse for those who label the current period as the most shocking and the most brutal in modern history.

An educator himself as president of Columbia University from 1948 to 1952, Eisenhower presented his proposal in an address before the 11th assembly of the World Confederation of Organizations of the Teaching Profession.

More than 400 delegates and observers from almost 80 nations were on hand.

"SIT-UP" STRIKE — Two inmates of the Federal Correctional Institution for Women on Terminal Island, Calif., huddle atop 50-foot smoke- stack where they climbed Monday night in what officials said was an attempt to gain attention for minor complaints. No effort will be made to bring them down— "we'll let their appetites do it," a guard said.

U.S. Indicates High Altitude Tests Still On

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. atomic officials indicated Tuesday that they plan to continue high altitude nuclear tests in the Pacific.

Although the final decision still rests with President Kennedy, an official announcement said: "Some weeks will be needed to repair the launching site and prepare it for the remaining high altitude tests of the Dominic series."

There had been speculation the experiments might be discontinued after three failures in four tries.

The third abortive attempt occurred last Wednesday, when a Thor rocket and its nuclear warhead were intentionally destroyed on the launching pad at Johnston Island.

There is only one launching pad on Johnston Island. Officials indicated it might take eight weeks or longer to repair the damage inflicted by last Wednesday's destruction.

The booster rocket and its nuclear payload were destroyed on the pad when a mechanical failure was detected shortly before blastoff.

An announcement at the time said there were no injuries and no nuclear explosion.

"A thousand details would have to be worked out before such a venture could be launched," Eisenhower said, "but I suggest to you the desirability of giving some thought to its possibility."

One detail would be the role the United Nations might play.

The former president, who is on a six-week private tour of Europe, said the concern of the faculty would be objective truth, purged of national and regional bias, hatred and prejudices.

"To procure such a faculty, the college would be guarded against seizure by rigid doctrinaires, propagandists and proselytizers," he said.

Compromise Move Killed By GOP Veto

Democrats' Efforts
To Patch Up Feud,
Halt Talkfest Fail

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democrats, deeply split over a communications satellite bill, tried to patch up their feud and end a five-day filibuster Tuesday night, but their efforts were stymied by the objection of a lone Republican.

A long day marked by a re-sounding clash between two top Democrats ended with the Senate recessing at 10:10 p.m. until noon Wednesday.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, Democratic majority leader, tried to end the long wrangle by proposing that the bill be sent to the Foreign Relations Committee with the stipulation that it be taken up again on the floor next Tuesday.

This would have had the effect of shelving the bill for a week. The Senate could have conducted other business in the meantime.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., who led the stalling tactics against the space communications bill, agreed to Mansfield's proposal.

Goldwater, Tower Object

However, the action required unanimous consent of the Senate and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., registered an objection. In a similar move a short time later, it was Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., who raised an objection.

As in other Mansfield moves involving the filibuster, the compromise proposal had the backing of Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., and other GOP leaders.

The communications bill, which would set up a private corporation to handle space communications such as those made possible by the new satellite, Telstar, has passed the House. Morse and other liberal Democrats contend the government should control space communications.

The second time the Mansfield compromise came up—resulting in Tower's objection—the majority leader had proposed a 10-day shelving period for the bill.

Some Republicans had voiced fears the 10-day interim would be used to bring up an administration-supported farm bill and insisted the leadership should file a debate-limiting cloture petition to force a decision on the communications bill with around-the-clock sessions.

Republicans Back Cloture

Mansfield and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the GOP minority leader, were armed with a cloture petition signed by more than a score of senators.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, said that "almost all" of the 35 Republicans would support a cloture petition if the Democrats promise to push it to a final vote.

He told a news conference after a meeting of the policy group that the Republicans don't want to support the motion to shut off debate if the bill is then to be shunted aside for other business.

Earlier in the day, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., challenged the veracity of the Senate's two top Democrats and rejected their future leadership in an explosive clash over the bill.

Targets of his outburst were Humphrey and Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the majority leader.

"I do not believe the majority leader," Morse said at one point. He also took sharp issue with Humphrey's account of comments he made about the threat to reelection of senators unless action is speeded up on the stalled legislation.

Mansfield fought back angrily. He accused Morse and his associates who are filibustering against the bill of "tactics that are delaying and dilatory."

Jackie And Caroline To Vacation In Italy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced Tuesday that Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy and her 4-year-old daughter, Caroline, will leave Aug. 7 for a vacation in Italy.

The First Lady and her party have booked passage aboard a regular Pan American commercial plane that flies non-stop from New York's Idlewild Airport to Rome.

Taylor's One-Chief Idea Opposed By Lemnitzer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer is against Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor's once-advocated plan to abolish the Joint Chiefs of Staff organization and replace it with a single, one-man chief of staff.

He said so Tuesday, in answering a question—his first public comment on a controversy revived by Taylor's nomination to become joint chiefs chairman succeeding Lemnitzer when the latter goes to Paris to head the U.S. and NATO commands in Europe.

During a question session held with students working during summer vacations in the defense establishment, Lemnitzer was asked about Taylor's advocacy of a single chief of staff.

Lemnitzer replied calmly but at some length, starting off with the comment that "I happen not to agree with this proposal."

Then he made these other comments:

1. He believes Taylor's views might have arisen from the fact that when Taylor was Army chief of staff and member of the joint chiefs, issues within the organization took excessively long for settlement.

2. There has been extensive change in the relationship between the chiefs of staff and the secretary of defense and in joint chiefs procedure since Taylor put his views into a book in 1960 after he had retired from the Army. Taylor was called back to active duty last year by President Kennedy as his personal military adviser.

3. When issues arise in the joint chiefs now they are brought immediately to the attention of the defense secretary. Moreover, each service chief personally takes his case to the secretary for a prompt decision.

Nuclear Compact Bill Signed By President

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy signed into law Tuesday an act giving the consent of Congress to a southern interstate nuclear compact.

The purpose of the legislation is to create a 16-state regional agency to be known as the Southern Interstate Nuclear Board, with one member from each state and headquarters in Atlanta, Ga. Its function will be to develop and control peaceful uses of nuclear energy throughout the common area.

The states are Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia and West Virginia.

JFK Lectures Brazil Visitors On U.S. System

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy engaged in a spirited exchange Tuesday with a group of Brazilian students, one of whom charged that American youths were being prepared for war despite talk of peace by U.S. leaders.

"We arm to protect our security," the President said in emphatic tones. "Anyone who wants war is insane. I think we've made it clear there isn't going to be any winner in the next war."

The President also strongly defended the U.S. free enterprise system when one of the 70 visiting Brazilians asked how the United States would feel if the Latin American country turned to socialism.

Kennedy, talking to the students in the White House rose garden, said: "It's your decision. We prefer the competitive market economy here."

"Look at the failure behind the Iron Curtain," he continued. "What you get is a denial of liberty, the rifle squad and a denial of progress."

The President told the students he had read in the newspapers some of their caustic comments on the U.S. economic system.

"I notice you feel this country is dominated by business," he said. "That will come as a great shock to the business community."

Derailed Train Smashes Homes

VANDALIA, Ill. (UPI)—Twelve cars of a Pennsylvania railroad mail train plunged from the rails Tuesday and slammed into a line of trackside homes. Three mail clerks and three townspeople were injured, none seriously.

The berserk cars cut a two-block swath of destruction in this sleeping southern Illinois community. They damaged three homes, ripped out a small overhead bridge, clipped off telephone and power poles and demolished an automobile.

"I thought a storm had hit," said James Walker, injured when he was knocked out of bed.

It was the Pennsylvania road's second derailment within three days. Nineteen persons were killed when a "baseball special" train derailed Saturday at Steelton, Pa., and three cars plunged into the Susquehanna River.

Desegregation Plan Approved At Winchester

WINCHESTER, Va. (AP)—As many as 17 Negroes may be enrolled in white schools when Winchester desegregates its public school system this fall under federal court orders.

Thirteen Negroes would enter white schools via a four-zone assignment plan approved by the city school board Monday night in compliance with a federal judge's directive.

Previously, two were ordered admitted to all-white Handley High School by the jurist and two others were assigned to the same school by the State Pupil Placement Board.

Dr. Garland Quarles, school superintendent, said that under the plan approved by the board, six Negro pupils would be allowed to enter the first grade at the John Kerr Elementary School and seven in the 9th grade at Handley.

Also, as a result of the zoning, 34 white students will be assigned to the city's Negro Douglas High School. However, the plan provides that "any pupil whose race is in the minority in the school or class may ... transfer on request."

Missiles Stay In Europe, U.S. Informs Allies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States sought Tuesday to reassure its European allies that this country plans no nuclear-missile "disengagement" in the wake of a major change in the U.S. and NATO military command.

A Defense Department spokesman said the command shift "does not presage" any alteration in U.S. policy on defense of Western Europe.

Some European statesmen and newspapers have indicated apprehension about the impending retirement of Gen. Lauris Norstad as the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's supreme commander in Europe and the selection of Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer to succeed him.

Also causing concern, chiefly in France and West Germany, is the naming of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor to replace Lemnitzer as chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Some reports published in Europe have suggested that the United States is preparing to pull land-based missiles and other nuclear weapons out of West Europe.

There will be no withdrawal of any of the 60 Thor missiles the United States has furnished Britain or the 30 Jupiter missiles given to Italy and 15 to Turkey, the spokesman said. The ballistic missiles have a range of 1,500 miles.

The U.S. weapon commitment actually may be on the verge of being increased, as the Army gets ready to ship the new 300-mile range Pershing bombardment missile to its troops manning NATO defenses.

There has been an "understandable mixup" in thinking in Europe in connection with the Norstad-Lemnitzer change and the Taylor appointment, the spokesman said.

People who have read Taylor's nearly 3-year-old book on defense policy "are making deductions that I don't think are true," he added.

Crump's Fate In Balance

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Otto Kerner delayed a decision Tuesday on whether convicted murderer Paul Crump will be electrocuted or live out his life in prison.

An aide said Kerner went to the executive mansion late Tuesday to ponder records of Crump's appeal for clemency from the death penalty.

The aide indicated the governor's action meant no decision on the condemned slayer's future would be forthcoming until Wednesday at the earliest.

The prisoner is scheduled to be electrocuted at 12:01 a.m. Friday. The governor had set aside this entire day to study documents and secret recommendations submitted by the Illinois Parole and Pardon Board.

The five-man board heard 6½ hours of testimony and argument Monday in Chicago. It boiled down to:

1. A claim by Crump's sympathizers that he has undergone a "miraculous change" during his nine years in jail, that a savage criminal has been turned into a decent citizen.

2. A contention by the state that there is no absolute proof that the prisoner has been rehabilitated.

Crump, a muscular, 32-year-old Negro, was convicted of murdering Theodore Zukowski, 44, a guard, during a $20,000 robbery of the Libby, McNeill & Libby plant in 1953.

Clara Barton Site Believed Pin-Pointed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A historian believes he has located the exact spot where nurse Clara Barton tended the wounded soldiers of the Civil War battle of Antietam in Maryland nearly 100 years ago.

The Interior Department said Tuesday the place is not the one that has traditionally been cited.

Robert L. Lagemann, historian of the Antietam National Battlefield site, has concluded on the basis of extensive research that Miss Barton worked in a cluster of buildings on the Middlekauf farm near Sharpsburg.

For years historians have believed Miss Barton, who later founded the Red Cross, cared for the wounded in a springhouse on the Poffenberger place.

Electric Boat Strike Ends As Pact Ratified

GROTON, Conn. (UPI)—The striking members of the New London Metal Trades Council Tuesday overwhelmingly accepted a three-year contract proposal, ending a walkout that tied up construction on $1 billion worth of nuclear submarines.

The vote was 4,775 in favor to 1,485 against. Of the more than 8,000 union workers at the electric boat division of General Dynamics Corp., 6,260 voted.

Celebrezze Sworn In As Welfare Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP)—Anthony J. Celebrezze, former mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, became secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare department in a White House rose garden ceremony Tuesday.

With President Kennedy looking on, Celebrezze, 51, was sworn in as successor to Abraham A. Ribicoff, who resigned to run for the U.S. Senate from Connecticut.

Celebrezze, who is the first replacement in Kennedy's Cabinet since he took office in January 1961, told newsmen after the oath-taking ceremony that "I'm going to work right this minute."

State Crops Need Rain

By The Associated Press — The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday much of the state still needs a good, soaking rain.

Reporting for the week ended July 31, the service said rains during the final half of July brought important relief to dry parts of Maryland, but more rain is still needed.

Among areas still in need of additional rain are parts of Washington and Carroll counties.

The service said important peach varieties moving to market in Washington County included Jerseyland, Redhaven and Golden Jubilee.

Summer apples moving to market included Williams Red from Washington County. A few Summer Rambo were picked in north central Maryland but the main harvest isn't expected before mid-August.

The harvest of Redhaven and Golden Jubilee peaches will be at its peak in Washington County this week. Sun High harvest is expected about mid-August and Sullivan Elberta about Aug. 22.

Although soil moisture was short and pastures provided less than average amounts of feed, relatively mild summer temperatures permitted crops to make more effective use than usual of available moisture.

Hail storms in Garrett and northern Harford counties damaged aged corn and other crops last week. The outlook still is for a good corn crop, however, and 65 to 75 per cent was in tassel, compared with less than 60 per cent on the corresponding date of last year.

Two Youths Charged In Woman's Slaying

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police charged two 16-year-old youths Tuesday in the fatal stabbing of Corinne Shelby, 41, of Baltimore.

Her blanket-wrapped body was found Saturday in a shallow grave near Pottstown, Pa.

Charged were Albert Spencer Ruffin Jr. and Ivan B. Sedgewick. Ruffin attends a church school in Reading, Pa. Baltimore detectives brought him here Tuesday.

Sedgewick was arrested in Baltimore Sunday.

Man Subdued With Tear Gas

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—Grayson E. Bowman, 61, was charged Tuesday with four counts of assault with intent to kill. Magistrate John Hollyday ordered Bowman held on $8,000 bond.

Hollyday also sentenced Bowman to 15 days on each of three counts of failing to disclose facts in getting jobless benefits.

Deputies Donald Horine and L. C. Davis said they went to Bowman's house Monday night to serve warrants on the welfare charges. They quoted Bowman as saying he would come outside as soon as he loaded his shotgun.

They said he stood naked in the doorway and fired twice before they summoned other policemen. Patrolmen Norman Small and Francis Pheil arrived and they lobbed tear gas shells into the house.

Pheil said one of the shotgun blasts was so close to his head that he could feel its wind.

After an exchange of shots, the officers said, the man put up his hands and surrendered. They said he had been drinking.

Fire Chiefs Meet As Cars Collide

SALISBURY (AP) — A Baltimore fire chief was passing through Salisbury the other day and accidentally ran into the local fire chief.

They had not intended to meet but their cars collided on the Salisbury Parkway and Chief Michael D. Horan of Baltimore noticed the other car belonged to the fire department.

Horan, not in uniform, got out and greeted Chief Wilson F. Taylor of Salisbury with "I'm a fire chief too, glad to meet you."

No charges were preferred and both chiefs plan to meet again in Baltimore this fall at the Fire Chiefs Association convention.

Horan was on his way home from Ocean City when the accident happened.

Storm Damage Aid Increased

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — President Kennedy has increased Maryland's authorization of federal aid for coastal storm damage to $1.3 million. Gov. Tawes' office announced Tuesday.

The allocation is $443,800 more than was originally approved by the President last June and is to cover the cost of work of the Corps of Engineers in building a dune line from Ocean City north to the Delaware line.

The federal aid was authorized after the President declared Maryland's coastal areas a major disaster area last March 9 following a severe tidal storm.

The earlier federal allocation of $856,200 covered aid to the state and local governments in rebuilding the boardwalk at Ocean City, movement of sand and repairs to the sewage system.

Gov. Tawes and William D. Patton, director of the Olney, Md. regional office of the Office of Emergency Planning, are to sign the new agreement next Tuesday.

The Corps of Engineers has announced in Baltimore that work on the dune line will begin in August with completion scheduled the latter part of September.

The dune line is to provide a temporary 12-foot high barrier against future storms.

S&L Operator Pleads Innocent

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Harold G. Applegarth, Baltimore attorney, pleaded innocent Tuesday to 84 indictments involving the Freestate and Suburban Maryland Savings and Loan associations he once headed in Prince Georges County.

Bond was set at $15,000 by Judge Roscoe H. Parker in Prince Georges Circuit Court.

Applegarth, 40, asked for a jury trial after each indictment was read to him during a 70-minute arraignment.

A Prince Georges grand jury returned indictments against Applegarth and two other men June 29.

Freestate and Suburban Maryland associations have been placed in receivership by the court at the request of the Maryland attorney general.

The indictments against Applegarth allege conspiracy to defraud depositors, embezzlement and larceny.

Two other men indicted June 29, Howard Mallek and George A. Murdock, pleaded innocent at their arraignment July 20. Applegarth's arraignment was delayed by his trial last week in federal court in Baltimore on a mail fraud charge involving Freestate. He was convicted and released on $3,500 bond pending hearing on a motion for new trial.

Five Burned In Boat Blast

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — An explosion set a 32-footer fishing boat ablaze at dockside in Ocean City Tuesday and sent five of its occupants to the hospital with burns.

The chief of the Ocean City Fire Department, Alfred Harmon, said other boat owners at the Ocean City Marina put out the blaze before the fire company arrived.

The owner of the boat, Byron R. Hale and his daughter Carolyn, 17, of Ocean City, along with a mechanic aboard the boat, Frank Lewis Jr., of Willards, Md., were hospitalized in Salisbury. They are listed in fair condition.

Mr. and Mrs. William Byrd of Ashland, Va., were treated at Peninsula General Hospital and released. They suffered first and second degree burns.

At Annapolis, the Tidewater Fisheries Department, which was conducting an investigation of the accident, said early reports indicated the explosion resulted from gasoline fumes in the bilges.

Hale received extensive second degree burns. His daughter had first and second degree burns of the hands, legs and face.

Possible Fruit Export Barriers Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., discussed with the State Department Tuesday possible means of helping or protecting growers who export fruit.

The Maryland senator was among several who met with Under Secretary of State George W. Ball.

Ball said the State Department was studying the problem of possible export barriers to fruit and vegetables from the United States.

State Crops Need Rain

By The Associated Press — and pastures provided less than The Maryland Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday much of the mid summer temperatures per-state still needs a good, soaking mitted crops to make more effective use than usual of available moisture.

Reporting for the week ended July 31, the service said rains during the final half of July brought important relief to dry parts of Maryland, but more rain is still needed.

Among areas still in need of additional rain are parts of Washington and Carroll counties.

The service said important peach varieties moving to market in Washington County included Jerseyland, Redhaven and Golden Jubilee.

Summer apples moving to market included Williams Red from Washington County. A few Summer Rambo were picked in north central Maryland but the main harvest isn't expected before mid-August.

The harvest of Redhaven and Golden Jubilee peaches will be at its peak in Washington County this week. Sun High harvest is expected about mid-August and Sullivan Elberta about Aug. 22. Although soil moisture was short

Man Subdued With Tear Gas

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—Grayson E. Bowman, 61, was charged Tuesday with four counts of assault with intent to kill. Magistrate John Hollyday ordered Bowman held on $8,000 bond.

Hollyday also sentenced Bowman to 15 days on each of three counts of failing to disclose facts in getting jobless benefits.

Deputies Donald Horne and L. C. Davis said they went to Bowman's house Monday night to serve warrants on the welfare charges. They quoted Bowman as saying he would come outside as soon as he loaded his shotgun.

They said he stood naked in the doorway and fired twice before they summoned other policemen. Patrolmen Norman Small and Francis Pheil arrived and they lobbed tear gas shells into the house.

Pheil said one of the shotgun blasts was so close to his head that he could feel its wind.

After an exchange of shots, the officers said, the man put up his hands and surrendered. They said he had been drinking.

Fire Chiefs Meet As Cars Collide

SALISBURY (AP) — A Baltimore fire chief was passing through Salisbury the other day and accidentally ran into the local fire chief.

They had not intended to meet but their cars collided on the Salisbury Parkway and Chief Michael D. Horan of Baltimore noticed the other car belonged to the fire department.

Horan, not in uniform, got out and greeted Chief Wilson F. Taylor of Salisbury with "I'm a fire chief too, glad to meet you."

No charges were preferred and both chiefs plan to meet again in Baltimore this fall at the Fire Chiefs Association convention.

Horan was on his way home from Ocean City when the accident happened.

How "Permanent" Is Your Birthmark?

The use of a concealing cosmetic is probably the easiest and safest way to deal with the common birthmark. It's certainly the least expensive, . . . but it's not always the most satisfactory. Nor are cosmetics the really practical solution for masking marks on youngsters.

The doctor, not the beauty specialist, is the one to consult about truly unsightly birthmarks—particularly the hemangiomas, those dark-colored blotches or spongy masses that seem to favor the area around the face and head where they are hardest to hide.

Most hemangiomas of the portwine or strawberry-mark variety are harmless, physically, but no doctor will poo-poo the emotional havoc they can raise in the women and little girls who bear them. Both dermatologists and plastic surgeons have evolved several methods of "erasing" them, to some degree. They're certainly worth inquiring about, and, in the case of a child, the sooner the better.

Tattooing in reverse is one of the techniques now being employed in some cases. Instead of a bright shade, a flesh-colored pigment is introduced under the skin, to restore the dark blotch to a color that will blend in with the natural skin tone.

Local Girl Rides On Top Float

Miss Nina Montgomery, as Miss Maryland, rode with Miss New Jersey, chosen the "Skating Queen of America," Miss Delaware and Miss Michigan on the Persian Municipal Auditorium float in the parade held in conjunction with the national roller skating contest in Lincoln, Neb., last weekend. The float was a big shoe skate.

Miss Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Montgomery, Bedford Road, will be pictured in the September issue of the "Skate," national skating magazine.

Having won the Tidewater state meet in June, Miss Montgomery represented Maryland in the contest, which was judged on beauty, poise and character. She was accompanied to Lincoln by Miss Euth Ann Montgomery, Miss Kay Wolf, Ralph Ferguson, Eugene Ross and Paul Weisenmiller. The contest was sponsored by the Roller Skating Rink Operators of America.

Cave-Kave Clan Has Reunion

The history of the family was presented to the 30 families representing the 13 children of Isaac Cave at the annual Cave-Kave family reunion, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Kave, Largent, W. Va.

It was reported that the history of the family has been traced back to the original Cave in England in 1559. Isaac Cave of Luray, from whom the family descended, was a blacksmith and was brought to Cumberland to make the chisels to cut the stones for First Presbyterian Church on Washington Street. While in Cumberland, Mr. Cave lived on Emily Street. During the Civil War, he was commissioned to do the blacksmith work for the Confederate Army at Luray.

Entertainment of the reunion was provided by Benny and Vallie Cain of Warrenton, Va. They were accompanied by Buck Harris and James D. B. Delozer of Alexandria, Va.

A cafeteria-style basket picnic was held at noon.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Offie Kave and sons, Dan Kave, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. John D. Rankin, Wheaton; Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Moreland and Mary Ann, Kearneysville, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Malcolm, William Malcolm, Linda Malcolm, Sandra Malcolm, Mrs. Nannie Klein, Fort Ashby, W. Va.; Mrs. Bertha Malcolm, Mrs. Mabel Bloom, Robert Malcolm, Robert Malcolm Jr., Bonnie Malcolm, Pacy Paw, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Buey, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lloyd, Charles Lloyd, Robert Lee Lloyd, Mrs. Myrtle Kave, Mr. and Mrs. James Frye, Debra Frye, Marion Kave, Mr. and Mrs. Warner Breeden, Warner Jr., Cynthia, Thomas, of Berkeley Springs, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. John Homer Postelle, Oxon Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Couter, Paula Couter, Wayne Couter, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Merle H. Reckley, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shipley, Samuel Shipley, Estella Shipley, Cumberland; Mrs. Josephine Smith, Cornelia Ann Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Waters, Mrs. Lillie Rothgeb, Luray, Va.; Mrs. Beatrice Kibler, Front Royal, Va., and Miss Irma Whisner, Arlington, Va.

The Fourth District United Democratic Women's Club will not have a meeting this month. The usual Dutch treat will be held with a meeting September 5 at Shaw's dining room, Oldtown Road.

OUTLINING YEAR'S SCHEDULE — Benefit parties and meeting programs were discussed at the executive board meeting of the Junior Woman's Civic Club held at the home of Mrs. Leslie J. Clark, president, Park Heights. They include the Red Stocking Revue and a style show. Plans were made to have a guest speaker at each general meeting. Left to right are Mrs. Glen Burke, treasurer; Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Terrence Burke, recording secretary; and Mrs. Wesley McGraw, vice president. A luncheon and board meeting is planned for August 29 at the Cumberland Country Club. General meetings will be resumed with a dinner meeting, September 5 at 6:30 p. m., also at the country club.

Deadline Set For Tickets

September 5 was set as the deadline for the ticket sale for the Soroptimist Club's card party and fall fashion show, which will be held September 12 at the Woman's Civic Club house.

The date was set and tickets distributed by Mrs. Maxine Doak at the special committee meeting called by Mrs. Alice DeHaven Monday evening at Sheeher's Restaurant.

The regular meeting of the club will be held September 11, with a board meeting at 7 and the general session at 8. It will be at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Approximately 15 members attended the dinner meeting Monday.

Mr., Mrs. Holt To Mark 55th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Holt will observe their 55th wedding anniversary with some of their family today at their home, 529 North Centre Street. Since Mrs. Holt "cannot get around too well," and Mr. Holt has a broken arm, there will be no formal celebration.

The former Miss Margaret Susan Wagner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wagner of Uniontown and Gallitzin, Pa., became the bride of Mr. Holt, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holt, of Mt. Savage, August 1, 1907.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church, with Rev. Kinsley officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Holt are the parents of four children. They are

How "Permanent" Is Your Birthmark?

The use of a concealing cosmetic is probably the easiest and safest way to deal with the common birthmark. It's certainly the least expensive. . . but it's not always the most satisfactory. Nor are cosmetics the really practical solution for masking marks on youngsters.

The doctor, not the beauty specialist, is the one to consult about truly unsightly birthmarks—particularly the hemangiomas, those dark-colored blotches or spongy masses that seem to favor the area around the face and head where they are hardest to hide.

Most hemangiomas of the port-wine or strawberry-mark variety are harmless, physically, but no doctor will pooh-pooh the emotional havoc they can raise in the women and little girls who bear them. Both dermatologists and plastic surgeons have evolved several methods of "erasing" them, to some degree. They're certainly worth inquiring about, and, in the case of a child, the sooner the better.

Tattooing in reverse is one of the techniques now being employed in some cases. Instead of a bright shade, a flesh-colored pigment is introduced under the skin, to restore the dark blotch to a color that will blend in with the natural skin tone.

The other techniques involve attempts to actually remove the marks or masses. Like tattooing, they should be done only by skilled hands. Even then, results vary. Strawberry marks respond more successfully to radiation or applications of solid carbon dioxide than the port wine stains, which tend to leave scars when treated by any methods other than tattooing or plastic surgery.

Cavernous masses may possibly be removed surgically, if they are small enough. They may also be treated by radiation or by injections that shrink them.

Cost can be determined only by the specialist after examining the characteristics of each individual birthmark. For some, costs may run fairly high. But, the important thing to remember is that you find your best "bargain" only when you rely on the best medical advice available.

Local Girl Rides On Top Float

Miss Nina Montgomery, as Miss Maryland, rode with Miss New Jersey, chosen the "Skating Queen of America," Miss Delaware and Miss Michigan on the Persian Municipal Auditorium float in the parade held in conjunction with the national roller skating contest in Lincoln, Neb., last weekend.

The float was a big shoe skate. Miss Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Montgomery, Bedford Road, will be pictured in the September issue of the "Skate," national skating magazine.

Having won the Tidewater state meet in June, Miss Montgomery represented Maryland in the contest, which was judged on beauty, poise and character. She was accompanied to Lincoln by Miss Euth Ann Montgomery, Miss Kay Wolf, Ralph Ferguson, Eugene Ross and Paul Weisenmiller.

The Fourth District United Democratic Women's Club will not have a meeting this month. The usual Dutch treat will be held with a meeting September 5 at Shaw's dining room, Oldtown Road.

Local Glass Firm Ordered To Comply With Law

A decree has been issued against Walter Oglebay, doing business as the Oglebay Glass Company, 414 Bond Street, permanently enjoining him from further violations of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

The order was issued by U. S. District Judge Edward S. Northrup in U. S. District Court, Baltimore.

The U. S. Department of Labor, Region 3 office at Chambersburg, Pa., reported that the defendant agreed to the payment of back wages and to the entry of the decree.

The decree requires the payment of back wages at the applicable minimum wage, the keeping of suitable records and prohibits unlawful shipments in interstate commerce.

On May 11, U. S. Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg charged Oglebay with violation of the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act.

Goldberg charged that the defendant failed to pay the applicable minimum wage, made unlawful shipments in interstate commerce and failed to keep required records.

Federal court was asked to bar further violations and to order the company to maintain adequate time and pay records and to prohibit unlawful shipments in interstate commerce.

Both legal actions followed investigation by the Department of Labor's Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Divisions under the supervision of William Hargadine Jr., regional director, Chambersburg.

Hargadine called attention to the fact that amendments of the act became effective on September 3, 1961.

The general effect of these amendments, he explained, was to increase the minimum wage from $1 to $1.15 an hour for employment previously subject to the act, and to institute a $1 minimum wage for employees in positions brought under the act for the first time.

The Oglebay Glass Company is subject to federal wage-hour regulations because it is engaged in cutting decorative patterns on glassware received and shipped in interstate commerce.

Dusty Lane, Auto Hazard Discussed

A heated discussion took place yesterday at the meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners concerning Fir Tree Lane in the Cresaptown area.

Francis Fabbri, who resides on the lane, said that the roadway is dusty and many cars which get onto the road by mistake for a nearby road, use his driveway to turn around. He said he has five young children and fears for their safety.

He also said the dust covers his home and other residences in the area. Fabbri said that rights of way were signed by property owners several years ago but the road has never been surfaced.

Commissioner John T. Mason made a motion to have the road surfaced but it lost for want of a second. Commissioner Louis the lane yesterday to see firsthand what the problem is and what can be done.

Commissioner John J. Rowan then said that the roadway would probably have been surfaced before but Commissioner Mason has refused to sign bills for stone which the county purchases. Mason said he will continue to refuse to sign these bills as he feels the county should buy the stone after asking bids and not piecemeal.

Commissioner Mason also said there have been roads surfaced in other areas of the county despite his refusal to sign the stone bills.

Fabbri said he was "going to keep after the matter" as he wants something done. He and Commissioner Rowan then engaged in a heated discussion after Fabbri said he has "some influence in that area." Rowan retorted that "making threats would get you (Fabbri) nowhere."

Fabbri apologized a few minutes later but insisted that something should be done. He said he was worried over the danger to his children by cars using his driveway to turn around.

Proposed Junk Yard Protested

Two men appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to protest the establishment of a junk yard near their homes in the Dutch Hollow area of Mt. Savage.

Harry Simpson and Thomas Andrews said that an area has been cleared and an old bus and a car have been placed on the tract. The proposed junk yard is owned by James Sacco, Sand Patch, Pa.

Lee Renaud, county planner, was summoned to the commissioners' office to discuss the matter. Renaud said that Sacco has applied for a special permit to operate the business and a hearing will be held on the matter sometime next week by the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Commissioner John T. Mason said that any violation of the Zoning laws of the county provides for a fine of $100 per day for each day in which a violation occurs. The commissioners said that Sacco should await the outcome of his hearing before starting to assemble any junk or other materials on the tract.

Postal Unit To Be Honored

A welcome home celebration for the members of the 729th Postal Unit, Army Reserve, which was called into active duty last August, will be held Thursday at the Allegany County War Memorial Reserve Center, Cresaptown.

A program will begin at 2 p. m. with Cumberland Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon Sr. as master of ceremonies.

A speech welcoming back the 14 reservists will be made by John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, in behalf of the citizens of the county.

A response will be made by Capt. Thomas P. Cumiskey Jr., commanding officer of the unit. The outfit was stationed for the year at Fort Meade in postal service. The 729th was one of the many reserve units called into federal service by President John F. Kennedy during the alert period last summer.

Following the program, a reception will be held in honor of the reservists.

Monday a 2½-ton Army truck from the reserve center was dispatched to Fort Meade for the men. They will leave there this evening.

Their last official day of active duty will be Thursday.

Proposed Junk Yard Protested

Two men appeared before the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday to protest the establishment of a junk yard near their homes in the Dutch Hollow area of Mt. Savage.

Harry Simpson and Thomas Andrews said that an area has been cleared and an old bus and a car have been placed on the tract. The proposed junk yard is owned by James Sacco, Sand Patch, Pa.

Lee Renaud, county planner, was summoned to the commissioners' office to discuss the matter. Renaud said that Sacco has applied for a special permit to operate the business and a hearing will be held on the matter sometime next week by the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Commissioner John T. Mason said that any violation of the Zoning laws of the county provides for a fine of $100 per day for each day in which a violation occurs. The commissioners said that Sacco should await the outcome of his hearing before starting to assemble any junk or other materials on the tract.

Postal Unit To Be Honored

A welcome home celebration for the members of the 729th Postal Unit, Army Reserve, which was called into active duty last August, will be held Thursday at the Allegany County War Memorial Reserve Center, Cresaptown.

A program will begin at 2 p. m. with Cumberland Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon Sr. as master of ceremonies.

A speech welcoming back the 14 reservists will be made by John J. Rowan, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, in behalf of the citizens of the county.

A response will be made by Capt. Thomas P. Cumiskey Jr., commanding officer of the unit. The outfit was stationed for the year at Fort Meade in postal service. The 729th was one of the many reserve units called into federal service by President John F. Kennedy during the alert period last summer.

Following the program, a reception will be held in honor of the reservists. Monday a 2½-ton Army truck from the reserve center was dispatched to Fort Meade for the men. They will leave there this evening.

Their last official day of active duty will be Thursday.

LaVale Unit To Meet

The Board of Directors of the LaVale Athletic Association will meet today at 8 p. m. at the home of Thomas L. Smith, Coverwood. Edgar J. Young, president, said all members are urged to attend.

Garrett County SRC Engineer Dies

Edward Phillip Kahl, Garrett County resident maintenance engineer for the State Roads Commission, collapsed and died at his Oakland office yesterday shortly after arriving for work. He was 63.

Employed by the State Roads Commission since 1932, he began as a laborer and became resident maintenance engineer in 1953.

Prior to his employment by SRC, Mr. Kahl worked as a bookkeeper for Northern Natural Gas Company, a position he took in 1920. Ten years later he became bookkeeper for H. W. Kahl and Sons.

From 1917 to 1919, Mr. Kahl served in the Army.

Mr. Kahl was a charter member of Oakland Rotary Club; president of Resident Maintenance Engineers Association of Maryland; a member of Knight of Pythias Lodge 113, Woodmen of the World and a 20-year member of Proctor-Kildow Post 71, American Legion. He was a member of St. Mark's Lutheran Church where he had served as treasurer and on the church council and was vice president of Lutheran Men's organization.

A native of Oakland, he was born January 2, 1899, a son of the late H. W. and Mary (Schmidt) Kahl.

Surviving are his widow, Carrie (Mann) Kahl; a daughter, Mrs. Martin L. Grove, Jessups, Md.; three sons, S. Sgt. Edward W. Kahl, Homestead Air Force Base, Fla.; Joseph W. Kahl, Eckhart and Charles T. Kahl, LaVale; two sisters, Mrs. Wellington Yutzy, LaVale, and Mrs. Oscar Peterson, Silver Spring; four brothers, Walter L. Albert W., Karl F. and Herman L. Kahl, all of Oakland, eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home, Oakland, where friends will be received from 2 until 4 p.m. and 7 until 9 p.m.

A service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p.m. at St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Rev. William E. Fox, pastor, will officiate and interment will be in Garrett County Memorial Gardens. The body will be taken to the church at 1 p.m.

Active pallbearers will be Stanley Sharpless, John Foreman, Robert Proudfoot, Elden Pike, Robert Alexander and William Sharps. Honary pallbearers will be members of the Rotary Club, Herbert Shaffer, S. Townsend Naylor, Harned E. Roth and Harry Turney.

Hospital Unit Gives $1,000 For Equipment

OAKLAND—Lohr Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital held a dinner meeting in Hinebaugh's Dining Room with Henry McComas, hospital administrator, as speaker.

McComas remarked that "this has been a century of scientific miracles. It has brought the most amazing strides in health care ever concentrated in such a brief period. Twenty years have been added to the life span. More babies are living to grow up, and more mothers and fathers are living to nurture their children to maturity."

McComas also stated that "the changing composition of the population points to an ever increasing concern with preventive care, with chronic illness and with rehabilitation. We are now a nation of over 179 million. If the present rate of population increase continues, it is estimated that by 1975 we will exceed 216 million. It is also predicted that by 1975, ten per cent of the population will be aged 65 or over—a tribute to the advances in health care but presenting special problems in caring for an aging population."

Mrs. Kermit Glatfely, president of the auxiliary presented McComas with a $1,000 check for the purchase of scientific equipment.

Will March In Bicentennial Parade

These five members of "The Old Guard" Fife and Drum Corps of Fort Myer, Va., will take part in the Grand Feature Parade in Romney on August 11. The parade will be one of the many features of the 200th birthday celebration which will be staged in Romney, W. Va. August 8-11. Other events scheduled Saturday, August 11, include the crowning of the Bicentennial Queen.

Hospital Unit Gives $1,000 For Equipment

OAKLAND—Lohr Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital held a dinner meeting in Hinebaugh's Dining Room with Henry McComas, hospital administrator, as speaker.

McComas remarked that "this has been a century of scientific miracles. It has brought the most amazing strides in health care ever concentrated in such a brief period. Twenty years have been added to the life span. More babies are living to grow up, and more mothers and fathers are living to nurture their children to maturity."

McComas also stated that "the changing composition of the population points to an ever increasing concern with preventive care, with chronic illness and with rehabilitation. We are now a nation of over 179 million. If the present rate of population increase continues, it is estimated that by 1975, ten per cent of the population will be aged 65 or over—a tribute to the advances in health care but presenting special problems in caring for an aging population."

Mrs. Kermit Glatfelter, president of the auxiliary presented McComas with a $1,000 check for the purchase of scientific equipment.

Bicentennial Will Feature Twist Contest

ROMNEY — An "open air" dance at the specially-constructed pavilion on the campus of the Schools for the Deaf and Blind will be held from 8 p. m. to midnight August 9 during feature days of Romney's 200th birthday celebration. Music will be provided by "The Gators."

A "twist" contest will be staged during the dance, with awards for the top three winners.

The project is being sponsored by Romney teenagers. The dance has the approval of the Bicentennial Executive Committee.

Hyndman Girl Tours New England States

HYNDMAN — Miss Florence Kinton is taking a month's tour and camping trip through New York, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, along with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. Luther Kinton of Rochester, N. Y. Florence was accompanied to Rochester by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kinton, and Kenneth Burkett of Tulsa, Okla.

Scenes Of Japan Shown To Club

FROSTBURG—Dr. Mikio Kato, a member of the Frostburg Rotary Club, showed colored slides and a travelogue of his return to his native Japan this spring during a meeting of the club Monday night at Big Savage Inn.

Dr. Kato visited Tokyo, Hiroshima and many shrines and temples, and attended a number of medical meetings during his trip.

Shinya Ochiai, a native of Tokyo who is studying to be an engineer, assisted in showing the films. He is assigned to the Amcelle plant during the summer.

Visitors included Theodore Bell, Cumberland; Cecil Inskeep and Timothy Conner, Lonaconing; John Dunn, Grantsville, and Joseph E. Eagen, Frostburg postmaster.

Frostburg Plans To Buy Burner For New Dump

FROSTBURG — The Mayor and Council Monday authorized the erection of a new burner at the proposed city dump site on Big Savage Mountain, two miles west of Frostburg off Route 40.

Negotiations for the tract of land are underway with the Borden Mining Company. Cost of the burner is $4,500. Spare equipment will be purchased as a precautionary measure.

Thomas G. McMorran was appointed to serve a five-year term on the Frostburg Housing Authority. The term will end July 31, 1967.

Kenneth Close asked council for the sole franchise to service the city in regard to television. No action was taken.

CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 148 The pocket-sized paperback editions of classic or popular works had their origins before the Civil War, and not, as some careless commentators have stated, in the 1920s. The steam-powered printing press and the mechanization of the binding trade after 1840 resulted in hundreds of different reprints and original books being issued at 25 cents or less via railway "news-butchers" and other outlets across the country.

The term "yellow journalism," applied first to Joseph Pulitzer's New York World, was taken from the phrase "yellowback literature," given much earlier by Edgar Allan Poe to loosely written, often sensational books. Commonly, these had a strawboard binding covered by yellow glazed paper.

"Dime novel" denominated such literature in popular phraseology after Beadle & Co. (later Beadle and Adams) started a series under that name in 1860 and made itself a predominant publisher of paperbacks.

Erastus Beadle stimulated mass popularity for his products in 1861 by donating thousands of copies for soldiers' recreational reading. In 1862, Beadle novels were booming in favor both on war and home fronts. Beadle issued some non-fiction works in the same format; significantly his 1862 publications included "Union Song Book," "A Soldier's Guide to Pensions," and "Baseball Book."

Authors of bestseller dime novels in 1862 included Ann S. Stephens, Edward S. Ellis, Rose Kennedy, Metta V. Victor. The latter penned the first Beadle novel with a Civil War theme, "The Unionist's Daughter, A Tale of the Rebellion in Tennessee."

Mrs. Stephens, a native of Connecticut who edited a national magazine at 22, was a bestseller in hardcover books before Beadle secured her as one of his stars. One of her works, "The Old Homestead," was made the basis of a play almost as enduring as "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

—CLARK KINNAIRD

This (right) was one of five books by Mrs. Stephens (above) issued by Beadle in 1862. Its heroine was in the Mormon trek from Nauvoo, Ill., to the new Zion at Great Salt Lake.

Still Operator Gets 15-Month Jail Term

BALTIMORE (AP)—U. S. District Judge W. Calvin Chesnut sentenced a St. Marys County tenant farmer, James H. Quade, 49, to 15 months imprisonment after conviction on a charge of operating a still.

Judge Chesnut ordered the sentence to start Oct. 1 to permit Quade to harvest and sell crops now growing on his eight-acre tract near Mechanicsville.

Quade's attorney, Paul J. Bailey, said the defendant would post the $2,500 asked by Asst. U.S. attorney Arthur G. Murphy.

Quade was arrested by two federal tax agents near the still last Dec. 3. The agents testified the still could produce 28 gallons of illicit whisky a day and deprived the government of about $1,000 in uncollected taxes.

Bedford Road Club To Work At Field

The Bedford Road Optimist Club will work this evening at its ball field on the Mason Road instead of holding a regular meeting.

Locust Grove Man Gets Home Permit

W. F. Drew of RD 1, Locust Grove, has been issued a permit to build a dwelling by James G. Stevenson, clerk of Allegany County Board of Commissioners. The frame and asphalt shingle home will have a concrete block foundation and cellar and will be built on Lots 76 and 77 on Wash Avenue in Locust Grove.

W. Va. Airports Get Allocations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., said Tuesday the Federal Aviation Agency is allocating $305,863 to five West Virginia airports for capital improvements.

The Benedum Airport in Harrison County will receive $118,500; the Walker Long Airport, Huntington, $54,615; Martinsburg Municipal Airport, $24,498; Morgantown Municipal Airport, $51,250 and Parkersburg Airport, $57,000.

Home On Leave

Wesley W. Michael Jr., 326 Avirett Avenue, has completed his recruit training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center and is home on leave before reporting to assignment at Aviation Technical School, Jacksonville, Fla.

LaVale Children Plan M-D Carnival

A committee of LaVale area children, headed by James Lewis, 13, of 111 Sante Fe Street, will hold a M.D. carnival for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., Saturday at the home of Frank Lewis, beginning at 4 p.m.

Others on the committee are Xina Lewis, Cheryl and Donna Cunningham, Kathleen Richards and Dick Carroll.

Soldiers Hurt In Plane Crash

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Four servicemen were treated for minor injuries at the Preston County Memorial Hospital here after their private, single-engine plane crashed on takeoff from an airstrip at nearby Camp Dawson, West Virginia's only military reservation.

They were Capt. Bernard L. Nutting, Lexington, Mass., owner and pilot; Sgt. Neil E. Dyer, Pensauken, N. J.; M. Sgt. Francis Healey, Edison, N. J., and Sgt. George E. McDermott, White Stone, N. Y.

C&P Allots Building Fund

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company has allocated $651,000 for an addition and new dial equipment for the central office building in Cumberland.

Bids for the construction of the new addition were to have been opened several weeks ago, but changes in the structural design caused a delay in the company's plans.

The new three-story addition will replace the old portion of the present building which abuts on Dexter Place. It will house additional dial equipment and a number of offices.

The board of directors of the company also authorized $36,000 to be used to expand and improve the outside cable network at Frostburg.

Club Meets Friday

The Tri-State Civic Club will hold its bi-monthly meeting Friday at 8 p.m. at Central YMCA.

Today, you can get this auto seat belt for $5.95 each at most Chevron Stations, installed free.

Why? Simply because Chevron believes that seat belts belong in your car and in every car.

Is this a good deal? Yes, it is. Many have paid $12.95 for this same belt, plus installation.

Chevron makes no profit on these belts. We want you to have them because we know they can save lives. 5,000 a year, agrees the National Safety Council. One of them could be yours. Here's something else to think about. The Council estimates your chances of serious injury are cut 33% by a seat belt.

These belts that your Chevron Dealer is offering exceed the tough GSA safety requirements set by the U. S. government. They're made by Davis Aircraft of rugged 100% Caprolan® nylon. They have comfortable, quick-opening buckles of strong aircraft aluminum. They're adjustable for any car.

Seat belts save lives. Seat belts belong in your car. If you haven't got them, have your Chevron Dealer put in a set of these belts this week. For your own sake, don't put it off.

At the sign of the CHEVRON we take better care of your car

BALTIMORE (AP)—U. S. District Judge W. Calvin Chesnut sentenced a St. Marys County tenant farmer, James H. Quade, 49, to 15 months imprisonment after conviction on a charge of operating a still.

Judge Chesnut ordered the sentence to start Oct. 1 to permit Quade to harvest and sell crops now growing on his eight-acre tract near Mechanicsville.

Quade's attorney, Paul J. Bailey, said the defendant would post the $2,500 asked by Asst. U.S. attorney Arthur G. Murphy.

Quade was arrested by two federal tax agents near the still last Dec. 3. The agents testified the still could produce 28 gallons of illicit whisky a day and deprived the government of about $1,000 in uncollected taxes.

Bedford Road Club To Work At Field

The Bedford Road Optimist Club will work this evening at its ball field on the Mason Road instead of holding a regular meeting.

Locust Grove Man Gets Home Permit

W. F. Drew of RD 1, Locust Grove, has been issued a permit to build a dwelling by James G. Stevenson, clerk of Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The frame and asphalt shingle home will have a concrete block foundation and cellar and will be built on Lots 76 and 77 on Wash Avenue in Locust Grove.

W. Va. Airports Get Allocations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., said Tuesday the Federal Aviation Agency is allocating $305,863 to five West Virginia airports for capital improvements.

The Benedum Airport in Harrison County will receive $118,500; the Walker Long Airport, Huntington, $54,615; Martinsburg Municipal Airport, $24,498; Morgantown Municipal Airport, $51,250 and Parkersburg Airport, $57,000.

LaVale Children Plan M-D Carnival

A committee of LaVale area children, headed by James Lewis, 13, of 111 Sante Fe Street, will hold a M.D. carnival for the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, Inc., Saturday at the home of Frank Lewis, beginning at 4 p.m.

Others on the committee are Xina Lewis, Cheryle and Donna Cunningham, Kathleen Richards and Dick Carroll.

Soldiers Hurt In Plane Crash

KINGWOOD, W. Va. (UPI)—Four servicemen were treated for minor injuries at the Preston County Memorial Hospital here after their private, single-engine plane crashed on takeoff from an airstrip at nearby Camp Dawson, West Virginia's only military reservation.

They were Capt. Bernard L. Nutting, Lexington, Mass., owner and pilot; Sgt. Neil E. Dyer, Pensauken, N. J.; M. Sgt. Francis Healey, Edison, N. J.; and Sgt. George E. McDermott, White-stone, N. Y.

C&P Allots Building Fund

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company has allocated $651,000 for an addition and new dial equipment for the central office building in Cumberland.

Bids for the construction of the new addition were to have been opened several weeks ago, but changes in the structural design caused a delay in the company's plans.

The new three-story addition will replace the old portion of the present building which abuts on Dexter Place. It will house additional dial equipment and a number of offices.

The board of directors of the company also authorized $36,000 to be used to expand and improve the outside cable network at Frostburg.

Today, you can get this auto seat belt for $5.95 each at most Chevron Stations, installed free.

Why? Simply because Chevron believes that seat belts belong in your car and in every car.

Is this a good deal? Yes, it is. Many have paid $12.95 for this same belt, plus installation.

Chevron makes no profit on these belts. We want you to have them because we know they can save lives. 5,000 a year, agrees the National Safety Council. One of them could be yours. Here's something else to think about. The Council estimates your chances of serious injury are cut 33% by a seat belt.

These belts that your Chevron Dealer is offering exceed the tough GSA safety requirements set by the U. S. government. They're made by Davis Aircraft of rugged 100% Caprolan® nylon. They have comfortable, quick-opening buckles of strong aircraft aluminum. They're adjustable for any car.

Seat belts save lives. Seat belts belong in your car. If you haven't got them, have your Chevron Dealer put in a set of these belts this week. For your own sake, don't put it off.

Elusive Confidence In The Economy

With regard to the economy the president of the New York Stock Exchange says that "most of the trouble today involves confidence."

G. Keith Funston isn't in favor of "some quick, across-the-board" tax cut to put added consumer spending in the economic stream. He contends there's already plenty of money in savings accounts that could be used for consumer spending if its owners had confidence.

He says what the economy really lacks "is sufficient investment in new plants and equipment and in new products to entice public consumer purchases." He therefore puts the emphasis on corporate and high bracket incomes in calling for a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

The tax cut clamor makes political bed-fellows of such curiously assorted protagonists as the AFL-CIO, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the president of the New York Stock Exchange. Although they agree concerning purpose they disagree sharply concerning method. The AFL-CIO contends the principal need is to cut taxes in the lower brackets to release consumer spending and thus give business an incentive to expand.

It isn't apparent that business would take off on any significant expansion program without evidence of increased consumer demand and simply on the basis of a tax cut. Similarly, there's no proof that consumers would rush out to spend their savings as the result of a tax cut that would put relatively little additional cash in their hands when parceled out over the 52 weeks of the taxable year.

The real question of confidence concerns the way the country is being run. Until the government learns to live within its income nobody can have much confidence in the ultimate outcome.

These Days

Labor And Trade

George Meany, President of the AFL-CIO, supporting President Kennedy's trade bill, offered some very interesting data:

"Since 1934 the United States has expanded its volume of exports from $2.2 billion to $20 billion worth of goods in 1961. During the first five months of 1962, exports were running at a rate of $20.9 billion, 5% ahead of the same period in 1961. These goods were produced on American farms and in American factories. They represent roughly 4% of U.S. total output of goods and services, income to American businessmen, farmers, and workers, and some 4 million export-related jobs."

Referring to our relations with the Common Market, Meany made the point:

"If the Common Market achieves its goal, it will emerge as one of the world's greatest mass markets. It may include as many as 300 million people. Exports from the U.S. to Western Europe already amounted to over $6 billion in 1961."

"We bought about $4 billion worth of goods from them. Thus the balance of trade was over $2 billion in favor of the United States last year with this potential market area, which can grow and absorb more U.S. products in the future, if the U.S. can negotiate effectively with it. Further U.S. dealings with the Common Market will be based upon hard negotiation and bargaining, and these negotiations must be aided by the legislation which enables the U.S. to gradually reduce, through a 'staging' process, the tariffs on a variety of goods if, and only if, reciprocity is achieved at the bargaining table."

This has to be recognized if the United States is to retain its seven or eight percent a year of foreign trade. It will have to be bargained for. As the world is now constituted, the free market has been made impossible by world-wide government restrictions. The Common Market, which is a growing institution, will set up barriers against us in terms of quotas, exchange arrangements, tariffs, or whatever they may feel is important to them. The Soviet bloc cuts off a part of the world. The United Arab Republic and its Islamic satellites will sooner or later become a hard economic bloc. In Latin America, no such bloc appears yet, but there is strong anti-American sentiment which needs to be liquidated.

Whose task is it to bargain and to negotiate? From the standpoint of the free enterprise system, it would be preferable if each business enterprise could bargain on its own. But this has been made impossible by the organization of these enormous government-arranged and managed blocs. Nor can Congress, which has the constitutional authority to pass legislation on this subject, negotiate with these vast inter-governmental commercial blocs.

There is then in this world something altogether changed which we have to recognize. Although this Congress is not desirous of expanding executive authority, it is nevertheless forced to recognize that only the President and the Secretary of State can negotiate with foreign governments and all international trade associations are government-owned and controlled.

It is difficult for the private enterprise system, which is fundamental in American life, to recognize the changes we face in the existence of these altered economic relationships. George Meany says:

"The AFL-CIO believes that the national welfare cannot be served unless the legislation adopted to expand trade takes into account the facts of change, the effects of change and the need to insure the strength of the economy at home. In short, the national welfare will not be served by an effort merely to suppress trade or ignore those hurt by trade. The nation will also suffer from efforts to depress the American economy for the sake of an international balance of payments accounting or a trade surplus on the books. A trade surplus must be based on domestic strength, not domestic weakness."

The trade bill involves many difficult adjustments but realism forces one to recognize that we are entering upon a period of neo-mercantilism and that this alone can save the private enterprise system. The alternative can be economic isolation, to support controls which would have to be set up to keep our people employed. Almost a third of all American exports go to Western Europe and it is a fact, that the higher the wages in an industry, the greater the export. The economy of the world is shifting.

'Beat It - You're Cramping My Style'

The New Phase Of The Cold War: How Bright?

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

In the modern world, the economists have replaced the theologians of less enlightened ages. With infinite certitude but little certainty of accurate prediction, they speculate upon the first things and last things of our industrial-commercial society.

By the same token, Sovietologists have now replaced astrologers. They read Pravda and Izvestia as their predecessors read the stars, and from these drab perusals, they cast the horoscope of this troubled world for the next months and years.

These reflections are inspired by the memory of a recent informal encounter between eminent practitioners of these two specialties or (in the old sense of the word) mysteries. The point that emerged from their talk, though it is not exactly news, is a least well worth recording.

On the one hand, the economists were worried, as all economists are nowadays. One of them had begun to suspect that the Western nations, with the U. S. in the lead, were entering one of the deflationary periods which have been characteristic second phases after great wars. These occur, he said, when the fuel of demand banked up in wartime at last burns out, and the post-war inflationary surge therefore comes to an end.

His colleague was less grim, but he too was alarmed, because he considered that the Western economies have now reached a stage where national economic policies must be, above all, extremely flexible and ruthlessly practical. And he saw a contrary tendency towards rigidity and impractical rubber-stamp thinking.

On the other hand, the Sovietologists were positively merry and bright, despite the Berlin crisis, the ferment in South America, the risky bet in Laos, and many another cause for apprehension. Their good cheer was based on their conviction that the troubles of the Communist part of the world were much worse than any current Western troubles.

The picture the Sovietologists painted appeared to sustain their judgment. Czechoslovakia, the former showpiece, in deep disarray; East Germany, a hideous national slum, presided over by an obscene, universally detested puppet; all the rest of Eastern Europe stagnant in varying degrees, and suffering as well from a seemingly incurable moral disaffection — that was how their story began.

In the Soviet Union, too, they saw a disturbing failure. The U. S. S. R.'s rate of growth, they pointed out, had failed to do what Nikita S. Khrushchev once hoped that it would do—namely, provide enough resources to meet the competing requirements of a great military effort, a massive industrial effort, and an increasingly demanding population of consumers. They even suggested that the resulting problem of investment priorities might later turn into a political problem.

Finally, looking further eastward, they pictured Communist China in the grip of an economic-political-agricultural crisis so terrible and unprecedented that its outcome was unforeseeable. With decreasing hope of rescue by a good crop this year, China, they remarked, was a country where almost anything might happen, but nothing good.

The point that emerged from these exchanges is simple but startling. The cold war, in brief, seems to be passing into a quite new phase, different in basic character from the long, stern postwar phase.

The transition has been masked by the persistence, in this new phase, of the maneuvers and challenges typical of the former phase, such as the challenge at Berlin. But this continuing political-military competition seems to be losing importance, compared to another kind of competition. This is the competition between the performance of the Communist and Western forms of society on their home grounds.

This is true mainly because the Communist form of society has lately begun to perform very badly indeed. A breakdown or blow-up in Communist China, for instance, will become a clear possibility if the new harvest is as bad as now forecast. And whatever its other results, such a breakdown or blow-up would be a staggering cold war setback for the Communist cause.

Other developments which now seem possible or probable in the Communist part of the world, though less dramatic than a Chinese breakdown, would also be severe setbacks. But the trouble is that at the very moment when the Communist form of society has begun to perform so badly, the vigor and economic health of the Western performance is also beginning to be called into question.

Maybe that flexibility and practicality the second economist hankered for should be regarded as necessary cold war weapons. (New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Report On A New Treatment For Dysmenorrhea

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

whereas in others it was mild to marked, but tolerable. The tablet is taken three times a day at the beginning of the menstrual period and continued throughout.

Of the group, 58 received the real McCoy and 52 were given identically appearing but inert pills (placebos). Approximately 65 per cent of those taking heparin noted improvement whereas only 8 per cent of the women on placebos were helped.

The causes of dysmenorrhea are variable but in most instances, the etiology is not known. The observation that 8 per cent got relief after taking a sugar pill shows a psychogenic factor is responsible in some cases. Narrowing of the opening of the uterus or the passage of large clots is a reasonable explanation for others.

Most women grin and bear their cramps but others are totally disabled. Much depends upon the ability to take pain, the need for an excuse, or what mother did under similar circumstances. Distress may be aggravated by congestion in the pelvic area caused by the retention of fluid.

Most women use an analgesic such as aspirin, Empirin, or Edrilal. Others resort to diuretics, heating pads, or special exercises. Time will tell whether heparin will be worthwhile because it is of value only when large clots develop.

PYORRHEA

G. C. writes: Does overweight tend to cause pockets around the teeth?

REPLY

No, but it causes pockets and bulges elsewhere. I assume you are referring to periodontal disease, in which food, infection, or irritation from tartar separates the teeth from the gums. This is the commonest cause of loss of teeth after age 30.

TYPES OF MEASLES

D. W. writes: What is the difference between German measles and ordinary measles?

REPLY

German measles is a milder, three day affair. On the first day it looks like measles; on the second, like scarlet fever; and on the third day, it is gone. The absence of Koplik's spots in the mouth eliminates regular measles as a possibility.

SUMMER SUN

E. L. writes: Does sunshine in the early summer months offer more benefit than that in August or September?

REPLY

No, but it feels that way because it is a new experience after going through the winter with so little sun.

ADENOIDAL TWANG

L. J. P. writes: Do enlarged adenoids cause a nasal twang to the speech?

REPLY

Yes, provided the adenoids are large enough to block the back of the nose.

DAILY BATHING

J. D. writes: Is taking a bath every day weakening?

REPLY

No—just cleansing and relaxing.

CAN'T TALK

L. C. writes: What can be done to recover a voice lost through a cold?

REPLY

Quiet, please. The larynx should be examined when hoarseness persists more than three weeks. Many people blame a cold for loss of voice but other causes must be considered.

OLDER MOTHERS

Mrs. J. writes: Are stillbirths more common in older than in younger women?

REPLY

Yes. The young mother stands the best chance of having a live baby.

MURMUR AND SPORTS

T. T. writes: Is it advisable for a 12 year old boy with a functional murmur to compete in sports such as baseball, football, and boxing?

REPLY

Yes, because the heart is normal when the murmur is functional.

TOMORROW: The fly nuisance.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

President Prepares To Strike Back At AMA For Obstructing Medicare

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is on vacation. In his absence his column is written by his associate Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy's fury at U. S. Steel for hiking prices was nothing, says White House insiders, compared to his cold anger at the American Medical Association for obstructing his medicare program.

He has been careful not to bring his Presidential powers to bear upon the AMA in the manner that forced U. S. Steel to rescind its price increase. But he intends to enlighten the public this fall on the AMA's methods and motives.

For instance, the Medical Society flew in doctors by the plane loads and turned them loose on Capitol Hill to lobby with their Senators against medical aid for the aged. Oklahoma Sen. Bob Kerr, who led the anti-medicare fight, even put his private plane at the disposal of a group of doctors.

The medical profession has also contributed heavily to key Senators and Congressmen in a brazen attempt to influence their votes. Since the AMA couldn't do this without jeopardizing its tax-exempt status, the doctors formed a separate political organization last September.

This is called the American Medicine for Political Action Committee, which has donated directly to 15 campaigns and has stimulated local doctors to raise money for many others.

The AMA piously pretends to have nothing to do with AMPAC, but this column has learned that AMA's trustees were responsible for creating AMPAC.

Bipartisan Front

At first, the AMPAC board was loaded with Republican doctors. This brought a discreet warning from Dr. Robert Robbins of Camden, Ark., an AMA vice president, that it would look better to make the board bipartisan.

The AMA trustees quickly agreed, in view of AMPAC's political purposes, to enlarge its board to five Republicans and five Democrats. All the Democrats, however, are solid conservatives.

One Democratic addition was Dr. J. J. Montfort of Batesville, Ark., who frankly admitted to this column that he was selected because he happens to be a close friend of House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills from nearby Kenosett, Ark.

The politically savvy AMA recognized that Mills holds the key to the medicare measure in the White House.

President Kennedy also will point out to the public that the doctors have a long record of seeking federal aid for themselves, although they oppose it for others.

The same AMA spokesmen, who opposed medical benefits for the elderly, asked Congress to vote federal funds for medical schools and research.

The doctors like to boast that they deserve high fees because of the high cost of their education. But the Association of American Medical Colleges has given away their secret. The latest available figures show that medical students in 1960 paid only 11 per cent of their tuition and fees.

The taxpayers picked up a generous 40 per cent of the tab. The rest came from endowments, hospital fees, and other sources.

The President also will argue that the Kerr-Mills program of medical aid, which the doctors favor, takes care only of oldsters who don't pay their doctor bills. Those who cough up, even though they may have to go heavily in debt to do so, aren't eligible.

Of an estimated 1,000,000 old folks who need medical care in Illinois, for example, fewer than 2,000 have been found eligible for Kerr-Mills benefits.

Result: of $20,000,000 available to Illinois for medical care, only $600,000 has been spent.

Kennedy, aware that there are more patients than doctors, believes he has a good case to take to the voters.

Alsop's Fables

The Grand Old Party has a mild case of schizophrenia over the Alsop brothers—John, the businessman; Joe, the columnist; and Stewart, the magazine writer.

For the benefit of Republicans who may not know one Alsop from another, here is the party line on each:

John Alsop should be praised by Republicans at all times for his sterling qualities. He is the GOP candidate for governor of Connecticut.

Joe Alsop should be denounced scornfully. He writes a political column which comments favorably upon the Kennedy Administration.

Stewart Alsop presumably should be judged by his latest output for the Saturday Evening Post. He sometimes writes nice articles about Republicans.

The official attitude toward John was settled, of course, after he won the GOP gubernatorial nomination in Connecticut.

But even as Connecticut Republicans were blessing the name of Alsop, the National Republican Congressional Committee called upon its partisans to blast another Alsop (Joe, that is).

The committee furnishes daily guidance to Republican candidates on what and whom they should attack. This private counsel, contained in a sheet called the "Issue of the Day," is carefully marked as "background material for press statements and other uses and has not been released to the press generally."

On the subject of Joe Alsop, a recent poop sheet advised: "Republicans are being 'roped in' by the Administration's press corps. Joseph Alsop said that the Republican leadership has approved the agreement on Laos. This false charge is planted everywhere by Administration spokesmen and by the favorite few who spread the propaganda line in the public prints."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The sunbeams bounce off the sea hot and silent. On the beach, the breakers barely make it, collapsing in thunder on the sand. The umbrellas look like hundreds of wild petunias. Women sit under them, streaking unguents on their shoulders; their men doze and bake their bellies in the sand. Solemn children build sand castles; some skip along the edge of the waves; some sit around mother.

Four are sitting around one mother. She has a round, pretty face. She wears a black bathing suit, a floppy straw hat with blue ribbons for tying and she laughs at what Kevin is saying in her ear. Kevin is two, a wrinkled nose laugher with a figure like a barrel of beer. What he is saying is "Happy do do . . . Happy do do . . ."

Mother translates for the others.

"He is trying to sing happy birthday to me." The identical blonde twins, 4 years of age, think that Kevin is funny because he can't say "Happy birthday." The mother is Virginia Lee Frechette, my daughter. She is 25 today. She is rich because, in Charlie, she has the right man and in Pamela and Robin, and Jim, 3, and Kevin, 2, plus the baby due within a month, she has the right family.

The refrain of all fathers is "It seems as though it were only yesterday." That isn't true. It seems longer ago than that. I had a Packard 120. Elinor and I were going on a tour of the Blue Ridge Mountains. The baby was six weeks away. We drank gin in Washington and started southwest in the morning with heads like Goodyear blimps.

We got as far as a town called Leesburg. That was all. Finita la moosica. Last stop. All out. There was a big driveway curving off to the right and Elinor got into the hospital and Virginia Lee—the name is an inversion of the town and state—was born in 31 minutes. The doctor said it was a strange delivery. "All that woman kept saying was 'Oh, my aching head.'"

Now it is 25 years later. Some of the old faces are gone; some new ones are here. Five years ago, Elinor, her mother and my mother all made the deep and final bow to life within 85 days. Since then, Ginny has had four babies, Gayle has had one. The tick of the clock is slow and inexorable.

This is an off day for Ginny. Instead of fretting and worrying about the children at home, she is doing it at Ship Ahoy Beach Club. Like most mothers, she automatically watches other little ones frolicking around the swimming pool. Behind the sun glasses, her eyes miss very little.

Carl Fleming comes over in a flaming red shirt to ask her if he can watch the four while she takes a swim. She says no, thanks. The most work she plans for today is to walk around the pool to the soda stand. Other than that, she will sit and look and count herself lucky. I live across the street from Ship Ahoy so I finish some work and hurry over to sit beside my one-time girl friend.

The babies crowd around. They call me "Pop-Pop" and their love for me is built around my boat. They fall over each other trying to ask if we are going on the Away We Go. Yes, I say. Yes, Yes. Kevin points at me, falls over my legs, and says: "Bo . . . Bo . . ."

Our new little girls Karen, 9, and Kathleen, 7, both beautiful blondes, help get the babies across the street and all hands, including Mrs. Katherine Rook, our housekeeper, get aboard the boat. There is a big white life raft on the foredeck and all the children sit in it. The boat turns her bows downstream on the Shrewsbury and sails sedately toward Sandy Hook.

I'm on the flying bridge and it is easy to watch all the children in the raft. Also, by turning around, I can see Ginny and Katie Rook and Kelly in the animated chatter of women. Rocky, our black police dog, sits forlornly on the dock watching the boat and crying through his nose. He wants to go, but it is impossible. The dog has been on the boat three times, and each time he gets sea sick before the craft leaves the dock.

The children begin to sing "I'm Popeye the sailor man." When they reach the boob-boop, I make the mistake of hitting the twin horns. The kids almost jump out of their skin laughing. Now, they sing chorus after chorus and, at the proper time, I'm expected to tap the horns. As I go under Highlands Bridge, the bridge tender comes out and glares down at me.

He thinks I'm nuts. I am. Once or twice, one of the little ones almost falls out of the raft and the heart, for the moment, beats in fright. By the time we get back to the dock, Charlie is waiting to kiss his wife happy birthday. "What's new?" he says. She shakes her head. "Nothing," she says. "Just a quiet day at the beach." . . .

Elusive Confidence In The Economy

With regard to the economy the president of the New York Stock Exchange says that "most of the trouble today involves confidence."

G. Keith Funston isn't in favor of "some quick, across-the-board" tax cut to put added consumer spending in the economic stream. He contends there's already plenty of money in savings accounts that could be used for consumer spending if its owners had confidence.

He says what the economy really lacks "is sufficient investment in new plants and equipment and in new products to entice public consumer purchases." He therefore puts the emphasis on corporate and high bracket incomes in calling for a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

The tax cut clamor makes political bedfellows of such curiously assorted protagonists as the AFL-CIO, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the president of the New York Stock Exchange. Although they agree concerning purpose they disagree sharply concerning method. The AFL-CIO contends the principal need is to cut taxes in the lower brackets to release consumer spending and thus give business an incentive to expand.

It isn't apparent that business would take off on any significant expansion program without evidence of increased consumer demand and simply on the basis of a tax cut. Similarly, there's no proof that consumers would rush out to spend their savings as the result of a tax cut that would put relatively little additional cash in their hands when parceled out over the 52 weeks of the taxable year.

The real question of confidence concerns the way the country is being run. Until the government learns to live within its income nobody can have much confidence in the ultimate outcome.

These Days

Labor And Trade

George Meany, President of the AFL-CIO, supporting President Kennedy's trade bill, offered some very interesting data:

"Since 1934 the United States has expanded its volume of exports from $2.2 billion to $20 billion worth of goods in 1961. During the first five months of 1962, exports were running at a rate of $20.9 billion, 5% ahead of the same period in 1961. These goods were produced on American farms and in American factories. They represent roughly 4% of U.S. total output of goods and services, income to American businessmen, farmers, and workers, and some 4 million export-related jobs."

Referring to our relations with the Common Market, Meany made the point:

"If the Common Market achieves its goal, it will emerge as one of the world's greatest mass markets. It may include as many as 300 million people. Exports from the U.S. to Western Europe already amounted to over $6 billion in 1961.

"We bought about $4 billion worth of goods from them. Thus the balance of trade was over $2 billion in favor of the United States last year with this potential market area, which can grow and absorb more U.S. products in the future, if the U.S. can negotiate effectively with it. Further U.S. dealings with the Common Market will be based upon hard negotiation and bargaining, and these negotiations must be aided by the legislation which enables the U.S. to gradually reduce, through a 'staging' process, the tariffs on a variety of goods if, and only if, reciprocity is achieved at the bargaining table."

This has to be recognized if the United States is to retain its seven or eight percent a year of foreign trade. It will have to be bargained for. As the world is now constituted, the free market has been made impossible by world-wide government restrictions. The Common Market, which is a growing institution, will set up barriers against us in terms of quotas, exchange arrangements, tariffs, or whatever they may feel is important to them. The Soviet bloc cuts off a part of the world. The United Arab Republic and its Islamic satellites will sooner or later become a hard economic bloc. In Latin America, no such bloc appears yet, but there is strong anti-American sentiment which needs to be liquidated.

Whose task is it to bargain and to negotiate? From the standpoint of the free enterprise system, it would be preferable if each business enterprise could bargain on its own. But this has been made impossible by the organization of these enormous government-arranged and managed blocs. Nor can Congress, which has the constitutional authority to pass legislation on this subject, negotiate with these vast inter-governmental commercial blocs.

There is then in this world something altogether changed which we have to recognize. Although this Congress is not desirous of expanding executive authority, it is nevertheless forced to recognize that only the President and the Secretary of State can negotiate with foreign governments and all international trade associations are government-owned and controlled.

It is difficult for the private enterprise system, which is fundamental in American life, to recognize the changes we face in the existence of these altered economic relationships. George Meany says:

"The AFL-CIO believes that the national welfare cannot be served unless the legislation adopted to expand trade takes into account the facts of change, the effects of change and the need to insure the strength of the economy at home. In short, the national welfare will not be served by an effort merely to suppress trade or ignore those hurt by trade. The nation will also suffer from efforts to depress the American economy for the sake of an international balance of payments accounting or a trade surplus on the books. A trade surplus must be based on domestic strength, not domestic weakness."

The trade bill involves many difficult adjustments but realism forces one to recognize that we are entering upon a period of neo-mercantilism and that this alone can save the private enterprise system. The alternative can be economic isolation, to support controls which would have to be set up to keep our people employed. Almost a third of all American exports go to Western Europe and it is a fact, that the higher the wages in an industry, the greater the export. The economy of the world is shifting.

The New Phase Of The Cold War: How Bright?

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

In the modern world, the economists have replaced the theologians of less enlightened ages. With infinite certitude but little certainty of accurate prediction, they speculate upon the first things and last things of our industrial-commercial society.

By the same token, Sovietologists have now replaced astrologers. They read Pravda and Izvestia as their predecessors read the stars, and from these drab perusals, they cast the horoscope of this troubled world for the next months and years.

These reflections are inspired by the memory of a recent informal encounter between eminent practitioners of these two specialties or (in the old sense of the word) mysteries. The point that emerged from their talk, though it is not exactly news, is a least well worth recording.

On the one hand, the economists were worried, as all economists are nowadays. One of them had begun to suspect that the Western nations, with the U. S. in the lead, were entering one of the deflationary periods which have been characteristic second phases after great wars. These occur, he said, when the fuel of demand banked up in wartime at last burns out, and the post-war inflationary surge therefore comes to an end.

His colleague was less grim, but he too was alarmed, because he considered that the Western economies have now reached a stage where national economic policies must be, above all, extremely flexible and ruthlessly practical. And he saw a contrary tendency towards rigidity and impractical rubber-stamp-thinking.

On the other hand, the Sovietologists were positively merry and bright, despite the Berlin crisis, the ferment in South America, the risky bet in Laos, and many another cause for apprehension. Their good cheer was based on their conviction that the troubles of the Communist part of the world were much worse than any current Western troubles.

The picture the Sovietologists painted appeared to sustain their judgment. Czechoslovakia, the former showpiece, in deep disarray; East Germany, a hideous national slum, presided over by an obscene, universally detested puppet; all the rest of Eastern Europe stagnant in varying degrees, and suffering as well from a seemingly incurable moral disaffection — that was how their story began.

In the Soviet Union, too, they saw a disturbing failure. The U. S. S. R.'s rate of growth, they pointed out, had failed to do what Nikita S. Khrushchev once hoped that it would do—namely, provide enough resources to meet the competing requirements of a great military effort, a massive industrial effort, and an increasingly demanding population of consumers. They even suggested that the resulting problem of investment priorities might later turn into a political problem.

Finally, looking further eastward, they pictured Communist China in the grip of an economic-political-agricultural crisis so terrible and unprecedented that its outcome was unforeseeable. With decreasing hope of rescue by a good crop this year, China, they remarked, was a country where almost anything might happen, but nothing good.

The point that emerged from these exchanges is simple but startling. The cold war, in brief, seems to be passing into a quite new phase, different in basic character from the long, stern postwar phase.

The transition has been masked by the persistence, in this new phase, of the maneuvers and challenges typical of the former phase, such as the challenge at Berlin. But this continuing political-military competition seems to be losing importance, compared to another kind of competition. This is the competition between the performance of the Communist and Western forms of society on their home grounds.

This is true mainly because the Communist form of society has lately begun to perform very badly indeed. A breakdown or blow-up in Communist China, for instance, will become a clear possibility if the new harvest is as bad as now forecast. And whatever its other results, such a breakdown or blow-up would be a staggering cold war setback for the Communist cause.

Other developments which now seem possible or probable in the Communist part of the world, though less dramatic than a Chinese breakdown, would also be severe setbacks. But the trouble is that at the very moment when the Communist form of society has begun to perform so badly, the vigor and economic health of the Western performance is also beginning to be called into question.

Maybe that flexibility and practicality the second economist hankered for should be regarded as necessary cold war weapons. (New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

YOUR MOVE—The State Department is in the midst of a delicate diplomat quest: to find someone with sufficient skill and sufficient government or social rank to play chess with the new Soviet ambassador to the United States—Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

Dobrynin let the department know that he enjoys playing chess, virtually the Soviet national pastime, and that he misses the keen competition he's been used to among his fellow Russians at home. True, there are some fair chess players on the Soviet Embassy staff, but apparently the representatives of the proletariat are having their own difficulties with rank.

So far, State hasn't found the ideal opponent for the ambassador. If their chess is good enough, their rank is too low; and if their rank is acceptable their chess isn't.

Besides, even if an opponent is found whose chess and status are both acceptable, there's the nagging little matter of whether any adverse results would flow from the conversation and friendship thus encouraged.

Report On A New Treatment For Dysmenorrhea

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A new treatment for menstrual cramps (dysmenorrhea) was reported recently in the medical journal, Obstetrics and Gynecology. The remedy is well known as a product to prevent clotting (heparin potassium). The plan is based on the theory that some women develop large clots within the uterus and have severe discomfort when they are passed.

Dr. Stanley P. Wegryn of Newark, N. J., evaluated the compound on 110 women with menstrual discomfort. In some, cramping was severe enough to interrupt their daily routine, whereas in others it was mild to marked, but tolerable. The tablet is taken three times a day at the beginning of the menstrual period and continued throughout.

Of the group, 58 received the real McCoy and 52 were given identical appearing but inert pills (placebos). Approximately 65 per cent of those taking heparin noted improvement whereas only 8 per cent of the women on placebos were helped.

The causes of dysmenorrhea are variable but in most instances, the etiology is not known. The observation that 8 per cent got relief after taking a sugar pill shows a psychogenic factor is responsible in some. Narrowing of the opening of the uterus or the passage of large clots is a reasonable explanation for others.

Most women grin and bear their cramps but others are totally disabled. Much depends upon the ability to take pain, the need for an excuse, or what mother did under similar circumstances. Distress may be aggravated by congestion in the pelvic area caused by the retention of fluid.

Most women use an analgesic such as aspirin, Empirin, or Edrisal. Others resort to diuretics, heating pads, or special exercises. Time will tell whether heparin will be worthwhile because it is of value only when large clots develop.

PYORRHEA

G. C. writes: Does overweight tend to cause pockets around the teeth?

REPLY

No, but it causes pockets and bulges elsewhere. I assume you are referring to periodontal disease, in which food, infection, or irritation from tartar separates the teeth from the gums. This is the commonest cause of loss of teeth after age 30.

TYPES OF MEASLES

D. W. writes: What is the difference between German measles and ordinary measles?

REPLY

German measles is a milder, three day affair. On the first day it looks like measles; on the second, like scarlet fever; and on the third day, it is gone. The absence of Koplik's spots in the mouth eliminates regular measles as a possibility.

President Prepares To Strike Back At AMA For Obstructing Medicare

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy's fury at U. S. Steel for hiking prices was nothing, says White House insiders, compared to his cold anger at the American Medical Association for obstructing his Medicare program.

He has been careful not to bring his Presidential powers to bear upon the AMA in the manner that forced U. S. Steel to rescind its price increase. But he intends to enlighten the public this fall on the AMA's methods and motives. For instance, the Medical Society flew in doctors by the plane loads and turned them loose on Capitol Hill to lobby with their Senators against medical aid for the aged. Oklahoma Sen. Bob Kerr, who led the anti-Medicare fight, even put his private plane at the disposal of a group of doctors.

The medical profession has also contributed heavily to key Senators and Congressmen in a brazen attempt to influence their votes. Since the AMA couldn't do this without jeopardizing its tax-exempt status, the doctors formed a separate political organization last September.

This is called the American Medicine for Political Action Committee, which has donated directly to 15 campaigns and has stimulated local doctors to raise money for many others.

The AMA piously pretends to have nothing to do with AMPAC, but this column has learned that AMA's trustees were responsible for creating AMPAC.

Bipartisan Front

At first, the AMPAC board was loaded with Republican doctors. This brought a discreet warning from Dr. Robert Robbins of Camden, Ark., an AMA vice president, that it would look better to make the board bipartisan.

The AMA trustees quickly agreed, in view of AMPAC's political purposes, to enlarge its board to five Republicans and five Democrats. All the Democrats, however, are solid conservatives.

One Democratic addition was Dr. J. J. Montfort of Batesville, Ark., who frankly admitted to this column that he was selected because he happens to be a close friend of House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills from nearby Kenosett, Ark.

The politically savvy AMA recognized that Mills holds the key to the Medicare measure in the White House.

President Kennedy also will point out to the public that the doctors have a long record of seeking federal aid for themselves, although they oppose it for others.

The same AMA spokesmen, who opposed medical benefits for the elderly, asked Congress to vote federal funds for medical schools and research.

The doctors like to boast that they deserve high fees because of the high cost of their education. But the Association of American Medical Colleges has given away their secret. The latest available figures show that medical students in 1960 paid only 11 per cent of their tuition and fees.

The taxpayers picked up a generous 40 per cent of the tab. The rest came from endowments, hospital fees, and other sources.

The President also will argue that the Kerr-Mills program of medical aid, which the doctors favor, takes care only of oldsters who don't pay their doctor bills. Those who cough up, even though they may have to go heavily in debt to do so, aren't eligible.

Of an estimated 1,000,000 old

folks who need medical care in Illinois, for example, fewer than 2,000 have been found eligible for Kerr-Mills benefits.

Result: of $20,000,000 available to Illinois for medical care, only $600,000 has been spent.

Kennedy, aware that there are more patients than doctors, believes he has a good case to take to the voters.

Alsop's Fables

The Grand Old Party has a mild case of schizophrenia over the Alsop brothers—John, the businessman; Joe, the columnist; and Stewart, the magazine writer.

For the benefit of Republicans who may not know one Alsop from another, here is the party line on each:

John Alsop should be praised by Republicans at all times for his sterling qualities. He is the GOP candidate for governor of Connecticut.

Joe Alsop should be denounced scornfully. He writes a political column which comments favorably upon the Kennedy Administration.

Stewart Alsop presumably should be judged by his latest output for the Saturday Evening Post. He sometimes writes nice articles about Republicans.

The official attitude toward John was settled, of course, after he won the GOP gubernatorial nomination in Connecticut.

But even as Connecticut Republicans were blessing the name of Alsop, the National Republican Congressional Committee called upon its partisans to blast another Alsop (Joe, that is).

The committee furnishes daily guidance to Republican candidates on what and whom they should attack. This private counsel, contained in a sheet called the "Issue of the Day," is carefully marked as "background material for press statements and other uses and has not been released to the press generally."

On the subject of Joe Alsop, a recent poop sheet advised: "Republicans are being 'roped in' by the Administration's press corps. Joseph Alsop said that the Republican leadership has approved the agreement on Laos. This false charge is planted everywhere by Administration spokesmen and by the favorite few who spread the propaganda line in the public prints."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The sunbeams bounce off the sea hot and silent. On the beach, the breakers barely make it, collapsing in thunder on the sand. The umbrellas look like hundreds of wild petunias. Women sit under them, streaking ungulates on their shoulders; their men doze and bake their bellies in the sand. Solemn children build sand castles; some skip along the edge of the waves; some sit around mother.

Four are sitting around one mother. She has a round, pretty face. She wears a black bathing suit, a floppy straw hat with blue ribbons for tying and she laughs at what Kevin is saying in her ear. Kevin is two, a wrinkled nose laugher with a figure like a barrel of beer. What he is saying is "Happy do do . . . Happy do do . . ."

Mother translates for the others. "He is trying to sing happy birthday to me." The identical blonde twins, 4 years of age, think that Kevin is funny because he can't say "Happy birthday." The mother is Virginia Lee Fréchette, my daughter. She is 25 today. She is rich because, in Charlie, she has the right man and in Pamela and Robin, and Jim, 3, and Kevin, 2, plus the baby due within a month, she has the right family.

The refrain of all fathers is "It seems as though it were only yesterday." That isn't true. It seems longer ago than that. I had a Packard 120. Elinor and I were going on a tour of the Blue Ridge Mountains. The baby was six weeks away. We drank gin in Washington and started southwest in the morning with heads like Goodyear blimps.

We got as far as a town called Leesburg. That was all. Finita la moosica. Last stop. All out. There was a big driveway curving off to the right and Elinor got into the hospital and Virginia Lee—the name is an inversion of the town and state—was born in 31 minutes. The doctor said it was a strange delivery. "All that woman kept saying was 'Oh, my aching head.'"

Now it is 25 years later. Some of the old faces are gone; some new ones are here. Five years ago, Elinor, her mother and my mother all made the deep and final bow to life within 85 days. Since then, Ginny has had four babies. Gayle has had one. The tick of the clock is slow and inexorable.

This is an off day for Ginny. Instead of fretting and worrying about the children at home, she is doing it at Ship Ahoy Beach Club. Like most mothers, she automatically watches other little ones frolicking around the swimming pool. Behind the sun glasses, her eyes miss very little. Carl Fleming comes over in a flaming red shirt to ask her if he can watch the four while she takes a swim. She says no, thanks. The most work she plans for today is to walk around the pool to the soda stand. Other than that, she will sit and look and count herself lucky. I live across the street from Ship Ahoy so I finish some work and hurry over to sit beside my one-time girl friend.

The babies crowd around. They call me "Pop-Pop" and their love for me is built around my boat. They fall over each other trying to ask if we are going on the Away We Go. Yes, I say. Yes, Yes. Kevin points at me, falls over my legs, and says: "Bo . . . Bo . . ."

Our new little girls Karen, 9, and Kathleen, 7, both beautiful blondes, help get the babies across the street and all hands, including Mrs. Katherine Rook, our housekeeper, get aboard the boat. There is a big white life raft on the foredeck and all the children sit in it. The boat turns her bows downstream on the Shrewsbury and sails sedately toward Sandy Hook.

I'm on the flying bridge and it is easy to watch all the children in the raft. Also, by turning around, I can see Ginny and Katie Rook and Kelly in the animated chatter of women. Rocky, our black police dog, sits forlornly on the dock watching the boat and crying through his nose. He wants to go, but it is impossible. The dog has been on the boat three times, and each time he gets sea sick before the craft leaves the dock.

The children begin to sing "I'm Popeye the sailor man." When they reach the boob-boop, I make the mistake of hitting the twin horns. The kids almost jump out of their skin laughing. Now, they sing chorus after chorus and, at the proper time, I'm expected to tap the horns. As I go under Highlands Bridge, the bridge tender comes out and glares down at me.

He thinks I'm nuts. I am. Once or twice, one of the little ones almost falls out of the raft and the heart, for the moment, beats in fright. By the time we get back to the dock, Charlie is waiting to kiss his wife happy birthday. "What's new?" he says. She shakes her head. "Nothing," she says. "Just a quiet day at the beach." . . .

Keeping Up With Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD. — Charlton Heston has no desire to get back in a business suit. The way his togas and robes parts have been coining money, Heston is perfectly willing to keep to his skirts and flounces.

So much so that he's putting his own money into "The Lovers," a medieval thriller, for his Russell Lake company.

"The Lovers" was a Broadway play of 1959 and a fair success. But before Heston activates the Leslie Stevens play, he has to complete the current "55 Days to Peking" and his assignment as John the Baptist in George Stevens' "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

The disappearing act of Gardner McKay is a puzzler. He's really beginning to sound as if he means it when he says he can take or leave a career. Proved the point when he turned down a big role in Marilyn Monroe's "Something's Got to Give" before it sunk.

Gardner has been in the Caribbean for months aboard a tramp steamer.

He's so much at home on the old tub he frequently helps the crew load and unload cargo. He writes, "I've grown a full beard. I'm eating too much because our food is super, and no one mentions movies. One who did want to know why he doesn't see John Garfield more often."

Gardner's contract with 20th Century Fox expires August 4th unless it's renewed. He doesn't seem to care one way or the other.

There will be no major surgery on Charles Laughton as had been under discussion, a big relief to his devoted Elsa Lanchester. It's added good news to all the fans of Charles that he's coming along so well following his serious illness that he's been paddling around in the swimming pool.

Elsa is so highly optimistic about the way her husband is coming along she is going ahead with her plans for a solo reading tour - the same as Charles used to make.

Ann-Margaret never drinks anything stronger than orange juice when she goes nightclubbing even though she's past the "minor" status.

The other evening, dancing with young businessman Lew Adler, at the star on the roof, the Swedish songbird was asked to autograph a highball glass, part of a new collection of celebrity glasses they're starting.

Our girl refused to put her name on the glass because it might give the impression that she indulges in stimulants. Instead, she scrawled "Miss Orange Juice."

You have to possess a gusty sense of humor to get any comedy out of that headline triangle out of Rome - and I'm sure you know who I mean.

But, honor bright, the script Donald O'Connor is reading for an Edward Dmytryk movie, "The Little Spectacular" is a rip snorting comedy about a couple of Hollywood stars making a million dollar movie in Rome who fall in love - and all heck starts popping.

Of course everyone concerned is quick to tell you that any resemblance to persons "living or dead" is purely coincidental. Chums.

Gletner Ends B&O Service

After 46 years of service, James D. Gletner, 408 Park Street, retired yesterday from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

For the past four years, he has been yardmaster at Evitts Creek east of here. Prior to that, he had been night yardmaster at the eastbound hump in the local yards for 18 years.

A native of Brunswick, Gletner started service with the railroad on June 30, 1916, as a clerk at Brunswick.

In 1934 he came to Cumberland as a consist clerk. In 1941, he was promoted to yardmaster at Evitts Creek, and later started his 17-year stint at the eastbound hump.

He is a member of the Railroad Yardmasters of America, Brunswick Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and is a former grand knight of Brunswick Council, Knights of Columbus.

His wife died five years ago and he is moving to Washington where he will reside with his son, Thomas J. Gletner, at 1922 N. Street, N. W. The latter is an accountant at Georgetown University Medical Center.

Another son, James E. Gletner, also an accountant, lives at 6711 22nd Street, West Hyattsville.

The first commercial creamery in the United States was established in 1856.

Eagles Plan To Attend Meet

Several local and area couples will attend the International Grand Aerie convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Pittsburgh August 1 through August 5.

Leaving Tuesday for the convention will be Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Myers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hopwood, Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Lease.

Myers will be representing the Cumberland Aerie and the Maryland and District of Columbia State Aerie. He is also a member of the Grand Aerie board of pension trustees.

Lease and Smith will be representing Cresaptown Aerie 2883. Dignitaries scheduled to speak at the convention include Cardinal Spellman, Ford C. Frick, Jack Dempsey, Jimmy Braddock, Tony Galento, Buddy Baer, Lefty Grove, Jimmy Durante and many others.

The Hilton Hotel will be the headquarters and a parade will feature the closing day on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Dorothy Manners

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD. — Charlton Heston has no desire to get back in a business suit. The way his togas and robes parts have been coming money, Heston is perfectly willing to keep to his skirts and flounces.

So much so that he's putting his own money into "The Lovers," medieval thriller, for his Russell-Lake company.

"The Lovers" was a Broadway play of 1959 and a fair success. But before Heston activates the Leslie Stevens play, he has to complete the current "55 Days to Peking" and his assignment as John the Baptist in George Stevens' "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

The disappearing act of Gardner McKay is a puzzle. He's really beginning to sound as if he means it when he says he can take or leave a career. Proved the point when he turned down a big role in Marilyn Monroe's "Something's Got to Give" before it sunk.

Gardner has been in the Caribbean for months aboard a tramp steamer.

He's so much at home on the old tub he frequently helps the crew load and unload cargo. He writes, "I've grown a full beard. I'm eating too much because our cook is super, and no one mentions movies. One who did wanted to know why he doesn't see John Garfield more often."

Gardner's contract with 20th Century Fox expires August 4th unless it's renewed. He doesn't seem to care one way or the other.

There will be no major surgery on Charles Laughton as he had been under discussion, a big relief to his devoted Elsa Lanchester. It's added good news to all the fans of Charles that he's coming along so well following his serious illness that he's been paddling around in the swimming pool.

Elsa is so highly optimistic about the way her husband is coming along she is going ahead with her plans for a solo reading tour - the same as Charles used to make.

Ann-Margaret never drinks anything stronger than orange juice when she goes nightclubbing even though she's past the "minor" status.

The other evening, dancing with young businessman Lew Adler, at the star on the roof, the Swedish songbird was asked to autograph a highball glass, part of a new collection of celebrity glasses they're starting.

Our girl refused to put her name on the glass because it might give the impression that she indulges in stimulants. Instead, she scrawled "Miss Orange Juice."

You have to possess a gusty sense of humor to get any comedy out of that headlined triangle out of Rome - and I'm sure you know who I mean.

But, honor bright, the script, Donald O'Connor is reading for an "Edward Dmytryk" movie, "The Little Spectacular" is a rip snorting comedy about a couple of Hollywood stars making a million dollar movie in Rome who fall in love - and all heck starts popping.

Of course everyone concerned is quick to tell you that any resemblance to persons "living or dead" is purely coincidental. Chums.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Bill Holden invited Nancy Kwan and her bridegroom, Peter Pock, on his "Paris When It Sizzles" set and popped champagne corks honoring the newlyweds.

Even though the outgoing regime made the choice of Bob Wagner to play attorney general Bob Kennedy in "The Enemy Within" Darryl Zanuck isn't squelching the idea. Mr. Z. believes Bob Wagner has a whole new career coming up after "The Longest Day."

With "Carnival" taking in $80,000 weekly in L.A., alone, the bank account of Anna Marie Alberghetti who has a cut in it, must be growing and growing.

Her many friends in Beverly Hills deeply saddened by the death of Mrs. Marjorie Cum-

Bill Holden invited Nancy Kwan and her bridegroom, Peter Pock, on his "Paris When It Sizzles" set and popped champagne corks honoring the newlyweds.

Even though the outgoing regime made the choice of Bob Wagner to play attorney general Bob Kennedy in "The Enemy Within" Darryl Zanuck isn't squelching the idea. Mr. Z. believes Bob Wagner has a whole new career coming up after "The Longest Day."

With "Carnival" taking in $80,000 weekly in L.A., alone, the bank account of Anna Marie Alberghetti who has a cut in it, must be growing and growing.

Her many friends in Beverly Hills deeply saddened by the death of Mrs. Marjorie Cum-

Gletner Ends B&O Service

After 46 years of service, James D. Gletner, 408 Park Street, retired yesterday from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

For the past four years, he has been yardmaster at Everts Creek east of here. Prior to that, he had been night yardmaster at the eastbound hump in the local yards for 18 years.

A native of Brunswick, Gletner started service with the railroad on June 30, 1916, as a clerk at Brunswick.

In 1934 he came to Cumberland as a consist clerk. In 1941, he was promoted to yardmaster at Everts Creek, and later started his 17-year stint at the eastbound hump.

He is a member of the Railroad Yardmasters of America, Brunswick Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and is a former grand knight of Brunswick Council, Knights of Columbus.

His wife died five years ago and he is moving to Washington where he will reside with his son, Thomas J. Gletner, at 1922 N Street, N. W. The latter is an accountant at Georgetown University Medical Center.

Another son, James E. Gletner, also an accountant, lives at 6711 22nd Street, West Hyattsville.

The first commercial creamery in the United States was established in 1856.

Tom Domen, Former W.V. Star, Named Southern High Grid Coach

Picked On All-WPIAL Team In High School; Succeeds Adolfsen

Appointment of Thomas Domen, 28, former West Virginia University center, as a member of the faculty and head football coach at Southern High School, Oakland, was confirmed last evening by Willard Hawkins, superintendent of Garrett county schools.

Domen, whose home is at Fredricktown, Pa., succeeds Earl "Whitey" Adolfsen, who resigned recently after having served as head grid mentor of the Highlanders during the seasons of 1959, 1960 and 1961 when his teams won 15 games and lost 11. His 1961 team posted a 6-3 record.

Played Under Lewis

A 200-pounder, Domen was regarded as a defensive stalwart and a rugged blocker when he played with the Mountaineers. He earned football letters at W.V.U. in 1955, 1956 and 1957 while playing for teams coached by the late Art "Pappy" Lewis. During the three seasons he played varsity ball at W.V.U., the Mountaineers won 21 games, lost eight and played one tie.

Domen along with Sam Huff, now a tackle for the New York Giants of the N.F.L., was selected on the Academic All-America team in 1955. Freddie Wyant, W.V.U. quarterback, made the second All-America that season. Domen played freshman football at Morgantown under coach Quentin Barnette.

Southern High School's new mentor was an outstanding player in his high school days at East Bethlehem Township where he excelled as a linebacker and made the first all-Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League team.

After graduating from West Virginia U., Domen served two years as assistant coach in New Jersey and one year at Connellsville, Pa.

He was offered a contract by the New York Titans of the American Football League but was forced to turn it down because of a back injury.

Fourth Southern Coach

Domen was recommended to Southern High School by Gene Corum, present head football coach at West Virginia. He becomes Southern's fourth coach since football made its debut at the Garrett County school in 1954.

His predecessors were Adolfsen (1959-61), Dick Travis (1956-1958) and Jim DeMoss (1954-55).

Randy Adams Hurls Perfect Game In Md.-W.Va. League

Randy Adams pitched a perfect game in the Maryland-West Virginia League yesterday, hurling Potomac to a 16-0 victory over Flintstone at the latter place.

Adams faced only 18 batters over the 6-inning route, failed to issue a pass and struck out 14. He whiffed the side in the first, third and fourth innings.

Dave Pyles had five hits in five official trips, including two triples. Rodney Welch collected four singles. Ronnie Kenney smashed a homer and two singles and Chuck Rilly belted a round-tripper.

Score: Potomac 16, Flintstone 0.

Cleveland Whips Los Angeles, 5-3

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Home runs by Willie Kirkland and John Romano and Gary Bell's relief pitching sparked the Cleveland Indians to a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Tuesday night.

Kirkland and Romano collected on successive bases-empty blows in the sixth inning to give Cleveland a 3-1 lead. Bell, who replaced Cleveland starter Jim Perry in the seventh gave up a two-run double to Bob Rodgers that tied the score, then hurled shut out ball in the last two innings after Cleveland moved ahead in the seventh.

The Indians scored what proved to be the winning run without getting a hit. Bell walked and Ty Cline laid down a sacrifice bunt. Dan Osinski, third Los Angeles pitcher, threw wildly past first, Bell moving to third and Cline to second.

Jack Spring replaced Osinski and pinch-hitter Chuck Essegian was intentionally walked to load the bases. Tito Francona hit into a force play at second to score Bell.

Junior Brelsford hurred his 10th shutout of the season and registered his 23 mound win yesterday as he blanked Stringtown, 2-0, on four hits in a County Softball League game at Hyndman.

The win enabled the pace-setting Hyndman to maintain its lead over Ellerslie which blanked Barrelville, 8-0, on Vernon Lowery's three-hitter. Kennell's Mill defeated Corriganville for the third time this season, 11-3, at Corriganville in the other loop encounter.

Hyndman bested Lee Raygor when Donnie Kreigline scored on an error in the fourth to break a scoreless deadlock, then Dick Emrick reached on an error in the fifth and came home with the second Hyndman run on Harry Widows' booming triple.

Tim Michael with a double and Gene Starr with a double and single shared three of Stringtown's four bingles. The victory was the fifth by Hyndman over Stringtown in the current campaign.

Vern Lowery picked up his 13th pitching win for Ellerslie behind the 13-hit attack of his mates who had two three-run innings against loser Jerry O'Baker. Charles Shaffer led the Ellerslie batsmen with three singles as the winners defeated Barrelville for the fourth time.

Kennell's Mill notched its seventh win—three over Corriganville—as Bob Gomer hurred a four-hitter against the losers. Robert Reese and Sonny Troutman hit home-runs for Kennell's Mill while Bill Burkett belted a circuit clout for Corriganville. Clyde Kennell had three hits for the winners. The results:

Tom Domen, Former WV Star, Named Southern High Grid Coach

Picked On All-WPIAL Team In High School; Succeeds Adolfsen

Appointment of Thomas Domen, 28, former West Virginia University center, as a member of the faculty and head football coach at Southern High School, Oakland, was confirmed last evening by Willard Hawkins, superintendent of Garrett county schools.

Domen, whose home is at Fredericktown, Pa., succeeds Earl "Whitey" Adolfsen, who resigned recently after having served as head grid mentor of the Highlanders during the seasons of 1959, 1960 and 1961 when his teams won 15 games and lost 11. His 1961 team posted a 6-3 record.

Played Under Lewis

A 200-pounder, Domen was regarded as a defensive stalwart and a rugged blocker when he played with the Mountaineers. He earned football letters at W.V.U. in 1955, 1956 and 1957 while playing for teams coached by the late Art "Pappy" Lewis. During the three seasons he played varsity ball at W.V.U., the Mountaineers won 21 games, lost eight and played one tie.

Domen along with Sam Huff, now a tackle for the New York Giants of the N.F.L., was selected on the Academic All-America team in 1955. Freddie Wyant, W.V.U. quarterback, made the second All-America that season. Domen played freshman football at Morgantown under coach Quentin Barnett.

Southern High School's new mentor was an outstanding player in his high school days at East Bethlehem Township where he excelled as a linebacker and made the first all-Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League team.

After graduating from West Virginia U., Domen served two years as assistant coach in New Jersey and one year at Connellsville, Pa.

He was offered a contract by the New York Titans of the American Football League but was forced to turn it down because of a back injury.

Fourth Southern Coach

Randy Adams Hurls Perfect Game In Md.-W.Va. League

Randy Adams pitched a perfect game in the Maryland-West Virginia League yesterday, hurling Fort Ashby to a 16-0 victory over Flintstone at the latter place.

Adams faced only 18 batters over the 6-inning route, failed to issue a pass and struck out 14. He whiffed the side in the first, third and fourth innings.

Dave Pyles had five hits in five official trips, including two triples. Rodney Welch collected four singles. Ronnie Kenney smashed a homer and two singles and Chuck Riley belted a round-tripper.

Cleveland Whips Los Angeles, 5-3

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Home runs by Willie Kirkland and John Romano and Gary Bell's relief pitching sparked the Cleveland Indians to a 5-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Tuesday night.

Kirkland and Romano collected on successive bases-empty blows in the sixth inning to give Cleveland a 3-1 lead. Bell, who replaced Cleveland starter Jim Perry in the seventh gave up a two-run double to Bob Rodgers that tied the score, then hurled shut-out ball in the last two innings after Cleveland moved ahead in the seventh.

The Indians scored what proved to be the winning run without getting a hit. Bell walked and Ty Cline laid down a sacrifice bunt. Dan Osinski, third Los Angeles pitcher, threw wildly past first. Bell moving to third and Cline to second.

Jack Spring replaced Osinski and pinch-hitter Chuck Essegian was intentionally walked to load the bases. Tito Francona hit into a force play at second to score Bell.

Bill Skowron Hits Grand Slam Homer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The streaking New York Yankees—even with Mickey Mantle sidelined again with leg trouble—generated enough slugging power Tuesday night to outlast a late-inning Washington Senator rally for a 9-5 victory.

A first-inning bases-loaded homer by Bill Skowron and a two-run blow by Elston Howard in the third were more than enough to give Bill Stafford his ninth win of the year and the Yankees their 23rd victory against eight defeats for the month.

Stafford collected two doubles and drove in two other runs himself but was driven out during a four-run eighth-inning Washington rally.

Jim Coates, the third Yankee hurler of the inning, put out the fire.

Skowron's grand slam in the first was his 18th homer of the year. It came off starter and loser Claude Osteen. Howard clipped Osteen for his 11th homer of the year in the third with Roger Maris aboard.

Junior Brelsford hurls his 10th shutout of the season and registered his 23rd mound win yesterday as he blanked Stringtown, 2-0, on four hits in a County Softball League game at Hyndman.

The win enabled the pace-setting Hyndman to maintain its lead over Ellerslie which blanked Barrelville, 8-0, on Vernon Lowery's three-hitter. Kennell's Mill defeated Corriganville for the third time this season, 11-3, at Corriganville in the other loop encounter.

Hyndman bested Lee Raygor when Donnie Kreigline scored on an error in the fourth to break a scoreless deadlock, then Dick Emrick reached on an error in the fifth and came home with the second Hyndman run on Harry Dwyer's booming triple.

Tim Michael with a double and Gene Stair with a double and single shared three of Stringtown's four bingles. The victory was the fifth by Hyndman over Stringtown in the current campaign.

Vern Lowery picked up his 13th pitching win for Ellerslie behind the 13-hit attack of his mates who had two three-run innings against loser Jerry O'Baker. Charles Shaffer led the Ellerslie batsmen with three singles as the winners defeated Barrelville for the fourth time.

Kennell's Mill notched its seventh win—three over Corriganville—as Bob Gomer hurls a four-hitter against the losers. Robert Reese and Sonny Troutman hit home-runs for Kennell's Mill while Bill Burkett belted a circuit clout for Corriganville. Clyde Kennell had three hits for the winners.

Ernie Davis Hurt, To Miss Friday Game

Collegians To Play Packers At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars' chances of upsetting the Green Bay Packers Friday night in the 29th annual All-Star football game sagged Tuesday when star halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse was declared out of the game because of illness.

It first was announced that Davis, last season's Heisman Trophy winner, had the mumps. However, at Evanston Hospital preliminary tests indicated the fleet halfback's ailment was of a different nature, possibly infectious mononucleosis.

At any rate, Davis' absence will take considerable thunder from the All-Star running attack against the favored National Football League champion Packers in Soldier Field.

More than 1,200 fans attended a civic luncheon in McCormick Place honoring the All-Stars.

Head Coach Otto Graham introduced each of his 49 All-Stars and asserted:

"The outcome of the game will hinge a great deal on the All-Stars mastery of pass patterns, protection of the thrower and avoidance of mental errors. If a defensive back makes a mistake, it could mean six quick points for the Packers."

The All-Stars have a trio of fine passers in Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, John Hadl of Kansas and Bobby Ply of Baylor. All-Star receivers include such able targets as Bill Miller of Miami (Fla.), Greg Mather of Navy, Gary Collins of Maryland and Charlie Bryant of Ohio State.

However, if the hand-picked and huge All-Star linemen can make any dent in the Green Bay forward wall, the collegiate running attack could surprise.

Even without Davis, the All-Stars have heralded and strong runners in Ron Bull of Baylor, Lance Alworth of Arkansas, Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, Earl Gros of LSU, Jim Saxton of Texas, Curtis McClinton of Kansas and Leroy Jackson of Western Illinois.

Dapper Yankees, Giants Cop Wins In Little League

Team	W	L
Cardinals	11	2
Giants	9	4
Yankees	8	4
Phillies	8	6

The Yankees and Giants continued in a second-place tie in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday by posting their ninth victories of the campaign, the former defeating the Cubs, 11-6, at Post field and the Giants rallying for four runs in the last inning to edge the Phillies, 4-3, at Constitution Park.

The Yankees scored six runs in the second inning and coasted to their second win over the Cubs this season. Rick Renotas notched his fourth win, striking out seven and walking two.

Todd Allen's triple was the big blow for the Cubs who lost their 11th game.

A two-out two-run double by Jack Willits gave the Giants their come-from-behind triumph over the Phillies who had held a 3-0 lead going into the bottom of the sixth inning.

Losers Tommy McGeedy had stopped the Giants on one hit — a fifth-inning single by Willits — until the fatal rally handed him his third setback.

A pair of walks and a fielder's choice set the stage for a two-run double by Steve Clark which spoiled McGeedy's shutout bid. Willits then doubled home the tying and winning runs with a smash over the centerfielder's head.

The Phillies broke a scoreless duel between McGeedy and winner Danny Young with three runs in the fifth. David Deremer tripled home a pair of tallies and scored on Gary Knowlton's single. Knowlton had a double in addition to his single while McGeedy chipped in with a three-bagger and single for the losers.

The results: AT CONSTITUTION PARK: 000 030-3 9 0 Giants 000 004-4 3 0 Tommy McGeedy and Timmy Hixon; Danny Young and Rusty Kunis.

National Retains 162-Game Schedule

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National League voted unanimously Tuesday to retain a 162-game schedule in 1963 and also against any inter-league games during the season.

Representatives of the 10 teams met briefly Tuesday and determined to start the 1963 schedule on April 8 and end on Sept. 29.

The number of games played will be the same as this year, the first with a 10 team operation. The teams will play 18 games with each other club, nine at home and nine away.

Roger Flanagan Takes .636 Average To State Tourney

Powelson Sparkles In Relief; Battle Salisbury Thursday

Roger Flanagan, hard-hitting third baseman, takes a .636 batting average into the Maryland Department American Legion Junior Baseball tournament when Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 engages Wicomico Post No. 64 of Salisbury Thursday at 10 a. m. at College Park.

Flanagan, who belted the ball at a .367 clip for Allegany High School in the County League this year, collected 7 hits in 11 trips to the plate for an average of .636 in the best-of-three series with Frederick here Saturday and Sunday and it was his triple with one out in the 9th inning that paved the way for the locals' 4-3 victory in the "rubber" contest. Roger slammed a homer, two triples and four singles in the series for Western Maryland honors.

Michael Long, Fort Cumberland infielder, garnered six hits in 12 trips for a series average of

Shotton's Funeral Scheduled Today

LAKE WALES, Fla. (UPI) — Funeral services for Burton Edwin (Barney) Shotton are scheduled for Wednesday morning at Marion Nelson Chapel here. Burial will be in Lake Wales Cemetery.

The former manager of the old Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team and the Philadelphia Phillies, died Sunday night at his home at near-by Camp Lester. He was 77.

Shotton had lived in semi-seclusion in this central Florida area since his retirement from organized baseball in 1950.

He guided Brooklyn to National League pennants in 1947 and 1949, but lost out in series play to the New York Yankees. A trademark of Shotton's managing was that he never wore a uniform but guided the team while seated on the bench in civilian clothes, and wearing a baseball cap.

He went into retirement at the close of the 1950 season when the Dodgers management declined to renew his contract. His Dodgers finished second in 1950 to the Philadelphia "whiz kids."

Team To Meet

Farrady Post Junior American Legion baseball team of Frostburg will meet at 8:30 p. m. tonight at the Legion home to make plans for the team's trip to Baltimore to see the Orioles play on Saturday. All players are requested to bring their uniforms to tonight's meeting.

500. Charles "Butch" Cross, catcher, who was 1962 batting champion of the County League with a .536 average at Fort Hill, had five-for-fourteen and an average of .357 while Roland Hamilton, the Potomac Valley Conference batting champion from Paw Paw High School, hit for .400 against Frederick by obtaining four hits in 10 official trips. Hamilton, who pitches and plays shortstop, was 5-0 and pounded the ball for .517 in the P.V.C. this year.

Powelson Stands Out

Pitching star in the Cumberland-Frederick series was Jimmie Powelson, Ridgeley Southpaw, who toiled in all three contests as relief hurler, and received credit for both of Fort Cumberland's victories. In fact, Powelson put the local post team in the series by beating Frostburg, 9-3, to give Fort Cumberland a 5-0 record in the Mountain District League. The lad who came up with the Phillies in the Dapper Dan Little League, hurled for Kiwanis in the Hot Stove League and now pitches for the Forty & Eight Club in the Rec Baseball League, has accounted for the last three wins scored by the local Legion team.

The second game on tomorrow's program at College Park brings together Essex Post 148 of Baltimore county and John Latimer Post 28, of Takoma Park, Montgomery county, at 1 p. m.

Friday's games in the double elimination tournament are set for 10 a. m., and 1 p. m., Saturday's single game at 1 p. m., and Sunday's game is set for 1 o'clock.

Squad Leaves Today The Fort Cumberland squad of 16 players headed by Manager George Zegles and Coaches Donald Renotas and Bob Shelley will leave today at 5 p. m., from the local post home for College Park.

Ernie Davis Hurt, To Miss Friday Game

Collegians To Play Packers At Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars' chances of upsetting the Green Bay Packers Friday night in the 29th annual All-Star football game sagged Tuesday when star halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse was declared out of the game because of illness.

It first was announced that Davis, last season's Heisman Trophy winner, had the mumps. However, at Evanston Hospital preliminary tests indicated the fleet halfback's ailment was of a different nature, possibly infectious mononucleosis.

At any rate, Davis' absence will take considerable thunder from the All-Star running attack against the favored National Football League champion Packers in Soldier Field.

More than 1,200 fans attended a civic luncheon in McCormick Place honoring the All-Stars.

Head Coach Otto Graham introduced each of his 49 All-Stars and asserted:

"The outcome of the game will hinge a great deal on the All-Stars mastery of pass patterns, protection of the thrower and avoidance of mental errors. If a defensive back makes a mistake, it could mean six quick points for the Packers."

The All-Stars have a trio of fine passers in Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, John Hadl of Kansas and Bobby Ply of Baylor.

All-Star receivers include such able targets as Bill Miller of Miami (Fla.), Greg Mather of Navy, Gary Collins of Maryland and Charlie Bryant of Ohio State.

However, if the hand-picked and huge All-Star linemen can make any dent in the Green Bay forward wall, the collegiate running attack could surprise.

Even without Davis, the All-Stars have heralded and strong runners in Ron Bull of Baylor, Lance Alworth of Arkansas, Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, Earl Gros of LSU, Jim Saxton of Texas, Curtis McClinton of Kansas and Leroy Jackson of Western Illinois.

Dapper Yankees, Giants Cop Wins In Little League

DAPPER DIVISION
Standing of the Teams

Cardinals 11 2 Red Sox 7 6
Giants 9 4 Pirates 5 8
Yankees 8 4 Cubs 3 11
Phillies 6 6 Orioles 1 12

The Yankees and Giants continued in a second-place tie in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday by posting their ninth victories of the campaign, the former defeating the Cubs, 11-6, at Post field and the Giants rallying for four runs in the last inning to edge the Phillies, 4-3, at Constitution Park.

The Yankees scored six runs in the second inning and coasted to their second win over the Cubs this season. Rick Renotas notched his fourth win, striking out seven and walking two.

Timmy Travis belted a double and single, Bob Snyder had a single and a pair of doubles and Williams smacked a home run and a two-bagger to pace the extra-base assault for the winners.

Todd Allen's triple was the big blow for the Cubs who lost their 11th game.

A two-out two-run double by Jack Willits gave the Giants their come-from-behind triumph over the Phillies who had held a 3-0 lead going into the bottom of the sixth inning.

Losers Tommy McGeedy had stopped the Giants on one hit — a fifth-inning single by Willits — until the fatal rally handed him his third setback.

A pair of walks and a fielder's choice set the stage for a two-run double by Steve Clark which spoiled McGeedy's shutout bid. Willits then doubled home the tying and winning runs with a smash over the centerfielder's head.

The Phillies broke a scoreless dead between McGeedy and winner Danny Young with three runs in the fifth. David Deremer tripled home a pair of tallies and scored on Gary Knowlton's single. Knowlton had a double in addition to his single while McGeedy chipped in with a three-bagger and single for the losers.

National Retains 162-Game Schedule

CHICAGO (UPI) —The National League voted unanimously Tuesday to retain a 162-game schedule in 1963 and also against any inter-league games during the season.

Representatives of the 10 teams met briefly Tuesday and determined to start the 1963 schedule on April 8 and end on Sept. 29.

The number of games played will be the same as this year, the first with a 10 team operation. The teams will play 18 games with each other club, nine at home and nine away.

Roger Flanagan Takes .636 Average To State Tourney

Powelson Sparkles In Relief; Battle Salisbury Thursday

Roger Flanagan, hard-hitting third baseman, takes a .636 batting average into the Maryland Department American Legion Junior Baseball tournament when Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 en-gages Wisconsin Post No. 64 of Salisbury Thursday at 10 a. m., at College Park.

Flanagan, who belted the ball at a .367 clip for Allegany High School in the County League this year, collected 7 hits in 11 trips to the plate for an average of .636 in the best-of-three series with Frederick here Saturday and Sunday and it was his triple with one out in the 9th inning that paved the way for the locals' 4-3 victory in the "rubber" contest. Roger slammed a homer, two triples and four singles in the series for Western Maryland honors.

Michael Long, Fort Cumberland infielder, garnered six hits in 12 trips for a series average of

Palmer Sets Pace

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Arnold Palmer continued to lead the list of top 10 professional golf money winners this week with $71,198.

Gene Littler was second with $57,770 and Bill Casper Jr. third with $2,438. Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player brought up the first half with 49,598 and 41,513 respectively.

Ernie Davis Hurt, To Miss Friday Game

CHICAGO (AP) — The College All-Stars' chances of upsetting the Green Bay Packers Friday night in the 29th annual All-Star football game sagged Tuesday when star halfback Ernie Davis of Syracuse was declared out of the game because of illness.

It first was announced that Davis, last season's Heisman Trophy winner, had the mumps. However, at Evanston Hospital preliminary tests indicated the fleet halfback's ailment was of a different nature, possibly infectious mononucleosis.

At any rate, Davis' absence will take considerable thunder from the All-Star running attack against the favored National Football League champion Packers in Soldier Field.

More than 1,200 fans attended a civic luncheon in McCormick Place honoring the All-Stars.

Head Coach Otto Graham introduced each of his 49 All-Stars and asserted:

"The outcome of the game will hinge a great deal on the All-Stars mastery of pass patterns, protection of the thrower and avoidance of mental errors. If a defensive back makes a mistake, it could mean six quick points for the Packers."

The All-Stars have a trio of fine passers in Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State, John Hadl of Kansas and Bobby Ply of Baylor.

All-Star receivers include such able targets as Bill Miller of Miami (Fla.), Greg Mather of Navy, Gary Collins of Maryland and Charlie Bryant of Ohio State.

However, if the hand-picked and huge All-Star linemen can make any dent in the Green Bay forward wall, the collegiate running attack could surprise.

Even without Davis, the All-Stars have heralded and strong runners in Ron Bull of Baylor, Lance Alworth of Arkansas, Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, Earl Gros of LSU, Jim Saxton of Texas, Curtis McClinton of Kansas and Leroy Jackson of Western Illinois.

Standing of the Teams

Cardinals 11 2 Red Sox 7 6
Giants 9 4 Pirates 5 8
Yankees 8 4 Cubs 3 11
Phillies 6 6 Orioles 1 12

The Yankees and Giants continued in a second-place tie in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday by posting their ninth victories of the campaign, the former defeating the Cubs, 11-6, at Post field and the Giants rallying for four runs in the last inning to edge the Phillies, 4-3, at Constitution Park.

The Yankees scored six runs in the second inning and coasted to their second win over the Cubs this season. Rick Renotas notched his fourth win, striking out seven and walking two.

Timmy Travis belted a double and single, Bob Snyder had a single and a pair of doubles and Williams smacked a home run and a two-bagger to pace the extra-base assault for the winners.

Todd Allen's triple was the big blow for the Cubs who lost their 11th game.

A two-out two-run double by Jack Willits gave the Giants their come-from-behind triumph over the Phillies who had held a 3-0 lead going into the bottom of the sixth inning.

Losers Tommy McGeedy had stopped the Giants on one hit — a fifth-inning single by Willits — until the fatal rally handed him his third setback.

A pair of walks and a fielder's choice set the stage for a two-run double by Steve Clark which spoiled McGeedy's shutout bid. Willits then doubled home the tying and winning runs with a smash over the centerfielder's head.

The Phillies broke a scoreless dead between McGeedy and winner Danny Young with three runs in the fifth. David Deremer tripled home a pair of tallies and scored on Gary Knowlton's single. Knowlton had a double in addition to his single while McGeedy chipped in with a three-bagger and single for the losers.

National Retains 162-Game Schedule
CHICAGO (UPI) —The National League voted unanimously Tuesday to retain a 162-game schedule in 1963 and also against any inter-league games during the season.

Representatives of the 10 teams met briefly Tuesday and determined to start the 1963 schedule on April 8 and end on Sept. 29.

The number of games played will be the same as this year, the first with a 10 team operation. The teams will play 18 games with each other club, nine at home and nine away.

Team To Meet
Farrady Post Junior American Legion baseball team of Frostburg will meet at 8:30 p. m. tonight at the Legion home to make plans for the team's trip to Baltimore to see the Orioles play on Saturday. All players are requested to bring their uniforms to tonight's meeting.

Shipping Defeats Tire Room, 12-5
Scoring seven runs in the first inning, Shipping went on to beat the Tire Room in a Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Softball League game yesterday at Greenpoint by the score of 12-5.

Sam Cousins limited the Tire Room to five safeties while his mates collected a total of 14 off Corrigan and James Horn.

Walter Abe slammed a triple and two singles and Jim Winters rapped a two-bagger and two singles for the winners. Thrasher and Crisp had two hits each for the Tire Room. Score:

Tire Room 100 400 0-5 5 2
Shipping 700 203 8-12 14 3
Corrigan, James Horn (1) and Thrasher. Sam Cousins and Bob Horn. Loser—Corrigan.

Powelson Stands Out
Pitching star in the Cumberland-Frederick series was Jimmie Powelson, Ridgeley Softball, who toiled in all three contests as relief hurler, and received credit for both of Fort Cumberland's victories. In fact, Powelson put the local post team in the series by beating Frostburg, 9-3, to give Fort Cumberland a 5-0 record in the Mountain District League.

The lad who came up with the Phillies in the Dapper Dan Little League, hurled for Kiwanis in the Hot Stove League and now pitches for the Forty & Eight Club in the Rec Baseball League, has accounted for the last three wins scored by the local Legion team.

The second game on tomorrow's program at College Park brings together Essex Post 148 of Baltimore county and John Latimer Post 28, of Takoma Park, Montgomery county, at 1 p. m.

Friday's games in the double elimination tournament are set for 10 a. m., and 1 p. m., Saturday's single game at 1 p. m., and Sunday's game is set for 1 o'clock.

Winner of the Maryland tournament qualifies for the regional event at College Park next weekend. New Jersey, Delaware, New York, West Virginia, Maryland and District of Columbia teams will compete in the regional for the right to go to the national tourney at Bismarck, N. D.

Squad Leaves Today
The Fort Cumberland squad of 16 players headed by Manager George Zegles and Coaches Donald Renotas and Bob Shelley will leave today at 5 p. m., from the local post home for College Park.

Market Closes Out Month With Fifth Straight Gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks closed out the month with their fifth consecutive gain on expanded trading Tuesday.

High speed tickers were late through most of both the first and last hours when the bulk of the gains were scored. Trading came to a 14-session high of 4,190,000 shares against 3,200,000 on Monday.

Dow-Jones industrials pushed close to what brokers have been referring to as the "600 psychological barrier"—the highest point reached during the market's recovery over the past two months and the level beyond which they expect considerable additional demand to develop.

The average closed at 597.93 for a gain of 6.49. Rails and utilities barely followed suit with gains of 0.03 and 0.13 in the D-J, respectively. Features in these two laggard sections were Norfolk & Western down 1, Consolidated Natural Gas off 2 1/4 and Cleveland Electric up 2 1/4.

Standard & Poor's inclusive stock index managed a gain of 0.40. Of the 1,247 issues traded, 680 advanced, two to new highs for the year, and 339 declined, nine striking new lows.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wheat and rye prices weakened late in the session Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade where corn, old firm and other grains ended narrowly mixed.

Wheat closed off $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ cents up $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ cents, oats off $\frac{1}{4}$ to up $\frac{1}{4}$, rye off $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ cents and soybeans unchanged up $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ cents.

Wheat futures backed down after early morning futures firming and a report that northwest houses sold December, and scattered commission houses were early sellers.

Southwestern cash wheat markets continued firm. Exporters said West Germany purchased 1,125,000 bushels of red winter wheat for August-September shipment.

Corn futures displayed steady to firm prices in quiet trading. The advance received from the offering was not sustained demand. Britain bought 300,000 bushels of corn for fall shipment.

Commission houses bought oats mainly the December contract. A private report indicated smaller yields than last

Urban Renewal Agency Reduces Budget Request

Will Submit Plan To FFHA This Fall

The Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency was told yesterday that the firm of Blair and Stein Associates, the city's planning consultants, hoped to be able to submit an application for a Workable Program for Community Improvement to the Housing and Home Finance Agency by October.

He told the agency, during a meeting in the office of Mayor Earl D. Chaney, that the city has been working on the application since 1960, and that his firm expects to complete work soon on a neighborhood analysis, one of the items needed to submit the application.

Will Cut Budget

As a result of the conference, the agency decided to drop its budget request for the current fiscal year from $15,000 to $12,000.

Most of the money in the budget would go to an executive director for the agency, and the cut in the request was made after Mr. Joyner said he did not believe the Workable Program application would be approved before January and did not think it would be necessary to have a full-time administrator until approval is granted.

The selection of a director or administrator was discussed at the last meeting of the agency, and Marion T. Powers, chairman, reported yesterday that he had written to three possible applicants.

Acceptance by the FFHA of the Workable Program — a plan of action toward community betterment through the elimination of blighted areas — is a prerequisite for federal aid for urban renewal projects.

Committees Needed

In response to a query by Karl W. Bachman, vice chairman, Mr. Joyner said a number of committees must be formed by the city in connection with the application.

They include a city code committee, a mayor's housing for displaced persons advisory committee and a citizens advisory committee.

City Engineer C. R. Nuzum briefed the agency on the status of the Cumberland Thruway program.

The agency decided to become a member of the National Association of Housing Redevelopment Officials at a cost of $12 a year.

Also present were Denton A. Fuller, secretary-treasurer; Mayor Chaney and George O. Hollar, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

West Virginia Economy Hits All-Time High

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday that this year the Mountain State's January-through-June economy topped any other corresponding period in the state's history.

The chamber said that despite a leveling off during June, 19 of the chamber's 22 economic indicators ran well ahead of their 1961 performances. And, of the 19, 13 topped West Virginia's best economic years in 1957 and 1959.

Among indicators showing gains during the first six months of the year was coal production, the chamber said. The output for the period was 61.9 million tons, up 17.2 per cent over year-ago levels.

During the same six-month period, monthly average unemployment dropped 24.4 per cent to 69,000. On a month-to-month basis, however, unemployment increased 6 per cent from May, to 63,500.

Other leaders during the six-month period included consumer sales tax collections, up 12.2 per cent and gross sales tax collections, up 10.2 per cent.

Flintstone Homecoming Committees To Meet

The final planning meeting for the Flintstone Homecoming August 11, will be held today at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Hazel Glover.

Teachers On Field Trip

Martin M. Gordon, center, work unit conservationist for Allegheny County Soil Conservation Service, explains a soil capability map to several teachers who are making field trips to Allegheny and Garrett County as part of a University of Maryland summer school workshop on teaching conservation of natural resources. With Mr. Gordon are Joseph Fling, Denton; Dr. Howard Erickson, Towson, instructor, left, and Miss Grace Tigani, Montgomery County, and Miss Norma Nelson of Frostburg, who teaches in Montgomery County. Eighteen teachers are making the field trip.

Summer School Students Making Area Field Trips

Eighteen teachers attending a University of Maryland summer school workshop on teaching conservation of natural resources, and their instructor, Dr. Howard Erickson, of State Teachers College, Towson, are making several field trips in Allegheny and Garrett counties this week.

With the group is Miss Norma Nelson of Frostburg, who teaches in Montgomery County.

Martin M. Gordon, work unit conservationist for Allegheny County Soil Conservation district, met the class Monday in Flintstone and conducted them on a tour of the area, explaining local land problems and soil conservation practices available to correct them such as contour strip farming, tile draining and others.

Included in the trip were visits to the farms of Ora Thompson and Mrs. Ruth Weicht, and to the Consolidated Orchards on Williams Road to observe these practices.

The class traveled to Garrett County yesterday where they were accompanied on the field trip by A. R. Bond, assistant state forester.

A tour of the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company is scheduled today, and if time permits Mr. Gordon will accompany the group on an inspection of old and new strip mining acreage in the county tomorrow.

He reported that the second place cow was Yvonne, an artificially-bred grade Holstein owned by Ernest L. Gano Jr., RD 2, Frostburg, placed third by producing in 25 days 62 pounds of milk.

Belle, an artificially-bred grade Holstein owned by Ernest L. Gano Jr., RD 2, Frostburg, placed third by producing in 25 days 62 pounds of milk.

Other dairymen with cows in the top ten in July include Workman Brothers, RD 1, Frostburg; James E. Miltenberger, RD 1, Ridgeley; and Shumaker Brothers of Rawlings.

Mr. Miller said there were 218 cows on test last month. The average production of all cows, he said, was 736 pounds of milk, 27.0 pounds of butterfat—a test of 3.67 per cent.

Poultry Queen To Be Selected At Moorefield

Big Crowd Expected At Tonight's Contest

Many persons from this area are expected to visit Moorefield this evening to attend a beauty contest to select Miss West Virginia Poultry Queen of West Virginia.

The winner will be selected from 21 contestants and will be crowned by Governor William Wallace Barron of West Virginia. The contest will begin at 8 p. m. and will be held in the Moorefield Fire Hall.

The event is one of the features of the annual West Virginia Poultry Festival and Convention which started Monday evening in Moorefield.

A luncheon will be held today at noon at Hotel McNeill for the poultry princesses where they will meet and be interviewed by the judges.

Miss Marcia Evans, Petersburg, winner of last year's contest, will preside at tonight's contest, and R. J. Bean will serve as master of ceremonies. The program also will feature an exhibition by Miss Judy Barton, Knoxville, Tenn., "Miss Majorette of America."

On Thursday, the newly-elected queen and the princesses will be guests of the Woman's Club of Moorefield at a brunch at 10:30 a. m. in the Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall.

Later that day, the queen and the princesses will participate in a parade which will begin at 6:30 p. m. Following the parade, a program will be presented on the carnival grounds which will include a concert by the Romney High School band.

The annual queen's ball will be held Saturday from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. in the Moorefield High School gymnasium. Music will be by Art Shaffer and his orchestra of Cumberland.

Hearing On New Trial Motions Slated Friday

BEL AIR, Md. (AP)—A hearing on new trial motions for Earl L. Blackburn and Frederick M. Mefford, convicted in separate trials of the slaying of Willis Snider, formerly of Cumberland is scheduled Friday in Harford County Circuit Court.

If new trial motions are denied by Judges Stewart O. Day and Edwin Harlan, Blackburn and Mefford will be sentenced immediately.

Hospital Buys Property Here

A deed to local property purchased by Sacred Heart Hospital of Sisters of Charity Inc. has been filed in the land records office of the Allegheny County Court House.

The three lots on Braddock Road in the Highview Addition to the City of Cumberland were purchased from John J. Reinhard Jr. and his wife, Mary D. Reinhard, Bangor, Me., and Michael D. Reinhard and his wife, Mary E. Reinhard, city.

Supervisors To Meet

District supervisors for Allegheny County Soil Conservation Service will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Extension office at the Court House.

City Will Have Good Surplus To Prime Budget

Tax Base May Curb Debt Rate Boost

The City of Cumberland will have about $239,000 available as "surplus" in making up the 1962-1963 budget, according to a preliminary estimate made yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, financial consultant.

And Mr. Gibson added that an increase of approximately $2,000,000 in the tax base will mean that the debt service rate cannot rise more than three cents, and may be kept at a two-cent increase.

He said the surplus will be "approximately the same as last year," (when $239,000 was on hand to prime the fiscal pump) but "could be a few dollars less."

The surplus represents the sum of excess collections and unexpended appropriations and is a vital part of the budget which will be set in a few weeks. It will also tide the city over until taxes begin to come in late in September.

Base To Rise

Mr. Gibson said the city will probably use a tax base of from $84,500,000 to $84,700,000, which will be approximately $2,000,000 more than was used in setting last year's levy.

Debt service costs, which totaled $239,962 last year, will rise to $271,429.50 for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

An extra $35,000 in maturities will occur this year because of the change in the fiscal year made back in 1948.

Debt service costs will drop back next year and will keep dropping back until 1977, when all bonds payable from the general fund mature.

The impact of the extra debt service costs will be lessened somewhat by the higher tax base and Mr. Gibson said that if it is possible to absorb some, the increase could be kept to two cents.

Has Been Dropping

Last year, the city used a tax rate of $1.54 for each $100 of assessable property.

This was spread between $1,249.8 for operating expenses, within two-tenths of a mill of the $1.25 legal limit, and $290.2 for debt service.

There is no legal limit on the amount to be levied to meet the cost of repaying principal and interest on the city's debt.

Debt service costs as reflected in the tax rate have been dropping steadily for some years as a result of the gradual increase in the tax base.

13 Youths Enlist In Air Force

Thirteen local and area men enlisted in the Air Force during July according to the local recruiter, Tsgt. Albert J. Hammed and Ssgt. Harold Harlow.

Enlisting from Cumberland were Lamar H. Martin, 510 Centre Street, Curtis W. Turley, 211 New Hampshire Avenue, Earl L. Hardman, 433 Chesnut Street, Donald E. Broome, Franklin E. Hartman, and Eugene L. Kalbaugh, 222 New Hampshire Avenue.

Others enlisting were Robert E. Friend, Westernport; Robert W. Peer, Ridgeley; Lloyd E. Harrison and David F. Kennedy, of the Flintstone area; and Gary Aldridge, Robert F. O'Neal and Ralph K. Pollock, all of Mt. Savage.

The youth are now at Lackland AFB, Texas for basic training.

Second Trip To Seattle Tomorrow

Still Room For Others

Another group of youngsters is eagerly awaiting departure from Cumberland tomorrow morning for a camping trip to Seattle and return in small buses which carried a similar group to that state and other interesting places in the United States during June and July.

Victor McKay, tour director, last night said 13 youngsters will be ready to move out of Cumberland at 5:30 a. m. tomorrow.

He will be accompanied by two other drivers and adult counselors, Miss Nancy Sitter, a lay teacher at St. Peter and Paul parochial school and Miss Evelyn Bright, librarian at Allegheny High School.

There is still plenty of room for other youngsters who might like to join in the cross-country trip which should cover about 8,100 miles.

Mr. McKay reported last night there is room for nine children.

On July 25 some 27 campers including adult counselors returned to Cumberland for a warm welcome by parents and friends.

Since their return the buses have been serviced and are ready for the trip across the nation, said the tour director.

State Park Attendance Falls Off

Attendance at state parks and recreation areas in Allegheny and Garrett counties was off last weekend, perhaps because of overcast weather which reduced the number of swimmers.

The Department of Forests and Parks said the number using facilities in the state was 99,706, about 5,000 fewer than for the same weekend of 1961 and about 20,000 fewer than during the previous weekend.

Attendance was up at Potomac State Forest in Garrett County from 75 on the weekend of July 22 to 115 on the weekend of July 29. Big Run was up from 1,618 to 2,711. Other attendance figures in the area, with previous week's attendance in parentheses:

Swallow Falls, 1,765 (2,380); Herrington Manor, 2,556 (3,840); New Germany, 1,818 (5,766); Dan's Mountain, 450 (595); Deep Creek Lake, 3,995 (5,464).

235 Wedding Permits Sold Here In July

A total of 235 marriage licenses were issued last month at the Allegheny County Court House bringing the total number sold in 1962 to 1,397.

In July 1961, some 209 licenses were sold and the total number of licenses for the first seven months that year was 1,299.

Local Man Seeks Beer License

Charles E. Lowery, 712 North Centre Street, has applied for a Class D beer license from the Allegheny County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners.

The license is being sought for use on premises owned by Harry E. Shobe on Valley Road.

B&O, Welding Firm Promise To Abate Noise

Meeting Held At City Hall

Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the firm which is welding rail here told city officials yesterday they will cooperate in reducing noise from the operation.

The pledge was made as Mayor Earl D. Chaney and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and John C. Sullivan, attorney for a number of Offutt Street residents, met with railroad officials at the Queen City Station.

The railroad was represented by W. W. Frye, assistant division superintendent; J. R. Rymer, division engineer, and Paul Arnold, representing the Matista rail welding company.

All present, officials said, promised to do all possible to abate the noise from the operation which railroad officials said is performed by 25 men employed by Matista and eight B & O workers.

During the conference, there was a report that doors have been left open at the building where rails are saved prior to welding. City officials said Mr. Arnold reported he would see that the doors remained closed.

According to the present schedule, the work will run into October, the city was told.

ARA Holds Up Funds For W.Va. Tourist Center

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Area Redevelopment Administration has decided to hold back on a $1.47 million grant to West Virginia for development of a tourist facility until the tourist potential of Pendleton and Pocahontas County can be determined.

The money was to go toward development of a facility at Sugar Grove where the Navy was building a giant radio-telescope. However, the Navy has scratched plans for the telescope.

A spokesman said, however, ARA and state officials are now discussing a plan to expand the tourist development program in the area. This would include the old logging railroad at Cass, Pendleton County, and the National Science Foundation's radio-astronomy center at Green Bank in Pocahontas County.

George Lavelle, Appalachian coordinator for the ARA and ARA counsel Thomas Harvey, met Tuesday with Gov. Barron and other state officials, to discuss what can be done about the situation.

Lavelle and Harvey and Robert Bowers, travel director of the State Commerce Department left Tuesday for a two-day trip through the area to continue the study of the area's tourist potential.

Intruder Enters Local Church

Someone broke into the Church of God on Fifth Street late Monday or early yesterday and ransacked the drawers of a desk, city police said.

Rev. C. D. Coley, pastor, notified police that he went to the church about 2:30 p. m. yesterday and found that a basement window along the west side of the church had been forced and pulled out.

The intruder then removed an inner door strip in order to open a door in the basement to get upstairs where a desk was ransacked.

Nothing was taken, according to the pastor, who said the breaking and entering occurred sometime after 11 p. m. Monday.

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van and Detective Harry Iser are investigating.

Cemetery Association To Meet Tomorrow

Survey Transits, Old And New

Alvin H. Wilson, general campaign chairman of the County United Fund, points to what is believed to be the oldest transit used for surveying in Allegheny County. On the table beside it is a contrasting, more modern transit. The old transit is believed to date back to about 1800. Aside from his collection of old engineering equipment, Mr. Wilson, who is president of the George F. Hazelwood Company, collects old clocks, tinkers with his 1907 model Ford, and looks after his Black Angus cattle.

Urban Renewal Agency Reduces Budget Request

Will Submit Plan To FFHA This Fall

The Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency was told yesterday that the firm of Blair and Stein Associates, the city's planning consultants, hoped to be able to submit an application for a Workable Program for Community Improvement to the Housing and Home Finance Agency by October.

He told the agency, during a meeting in the office of Mayor Earl D. Chaney, that the city has been working on the application since 1960, and that his firm expects to complete work soon on a neighborhood analysis, one of the items needed to submit the application.

Will Cut Budget

As a result of the conference, the agency decided to drop its budget request for the current fiscal year from $15,000 to $12,000.

Most of the money in the budget would go to an executive director for the agency, and the cut in the request was made after Mr. Joyner said he did not believe the Workable Program application would be approved before January and did not think it would be necessary to have a full-time administrator until approval is granted.

The selection of a director or administrator was discussed at the last meeting of the agency, and Marion T. Powers, chairman, reported yesterday that he had written to three possible applicants.

Acceptance by the FFHA of the Workable Program — a plan of action toward community betterment through the elimination of blighted areas — is a prerequisite for federal aid for urban renewal projects.

Committees Needed

In response to a query by Karl W. Bachman, vice chairman, Mr. Joyner said a number of committees must be formed by the city in connection with the application.

They include a city code committee, a mayor's housing for displaced persons advisory committee and a citizens advisory committee.

City Engineer C. R. Nuzum briefed the agency on the status of the Cumberland Thruway program.

The agency decided to become a member of the National Association of Housing Redevelopment Officials at a cost of $12 a year.

Also present were Denton A. Fuller, secretary-treasurer; Mayor Chaney and George O. Holler, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

West Virginia Economy Hits All-Time High

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Chamber of Commerce said Tuesday that this year the Mountain State's January - through - June economy topped any other corresponding period in the state's history.

The chamber said that despite a leveling off during June, 19 of the chamber's 22 economic indicators ran well ahead of their 1961 performances. And, of the 19, 13 topped West Virginia's best economic years in 1957 and 1959.

Among indicators showing gains during the first six months of the year was coal production, the chamber said. The output for the period was 61.9 million tons, up 17.2 per cent over year-ago levels.

During the same six-month period, monthly average unemployment dropped 24.4 per cent to 69,000. On a month-to-month basis, however, unemployment increased 6 per cent from May, to 63,500.

Other leaders during the six-month period included consumer sales tax collections, up 12.2 per cent and gross sales tax collections, up 10.2 per cent.

Top Butterfat Producing Cows Cited In Report

Placing first in the top 10 butterfat producers last month in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1 was No. 25, a grade Holstein owned by Harry H. Delbrook of Mt. Savage.

The cow produced 65 pounds of butterfat and 1,810 pounds of milk, said Harry E. Miller, DHIA supervisor.

He reported that the second place cow was Yvonne, an artificially-bred grade Holstein owned by C. W. Brinker, Springfield, W. Va., which produced 62 pounds of butterfat and 2,060 pounds of milk.

Belle, an artificially-bred grade Holstein owned by Ernest L. Gano Jr., RD 2, Frostburg, placed third by producing in 25 days 62 pounds of milk.

Other dairymen with cows in the top ten in July include Workman Brothers, RD 1, Frostburg; James E. Miltenberger, RD 1, Ridgeley; and Shumaker Brothers of Rawlings.

Mr. Miller said there were 218 cows on test last month. The average production of all cows, he said, was 736 pounds of milk, 27.0 pounds of butterfat—a test of 3.67 per cent.

Poultry Queen To Be Selected At Moorefield

Big Crowd Expected At Tonight's Contest

Many persons from this area are expected to visit Moorefield this evening to attend a beauty contest to select Miss West Virginia Poultry Queen of West Virginia.

The winner will be selected from 21 contestants and will be crowned by Governor William Wallace Barron of West Virginia. The contest will begin at 8 p. m. and will be held in the Moorefield Fire Hall.

The event is one of the features of the annual West Virginia Poultry Festival and Convention which started Monday evening in Moorefield.

A luncheon will be held today at noon at Hotel McNeill for the poultry princesses where they will meet and be interviewed by the judges.

Miss Marcia Evans, Petersburg, winner of last year's contest, will preside at tonight's contest, and R. J. Bean will serve as master of ceremonies. The program also will feature an exhibition by Miss Judy Barton, Knoxville, Tenn., "Miss Majorette of America."

On Thursday, the newly-elected queen and the princesses will be guests of the Woman's Club of Moorefield at a brunch at 10:30 a. m. in the Presbyterian Church Fellowship Hall.

Later that day, the queen and the princesses will participate in a parade which will begin at 6:30 p. m. Following the parade, a program will be presented on the carnival grounds which will include a concert by the Romney High School band.

The annual queen's ball will be held Saturday from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. in the Moorefield High School gymnasium. Music will be by Art Shaffer and his orchestra of Cumberland.

Hearing On New Trial Motions Slated Friday

BEL AIR, Md. (AP)—A hearing on new trial motions for Earl L. Blackburn and Frederick M. Mefford, convicted in separate trials of the slaying of Willis Snider, formerly of Cumberland is scheduled Friday in Harford County Circuit Court.

If new trial motions are denied by Judges Stewart O. Day and Edwin Harlan, Blackburn and Mefford will be sentenced immediately.

Hospital Buys Property Here

A deed to local property purchased by Sacred Heart Hospital of Sisters of Charity Inc. has been filed in the land records office of the Allegheny County Court House.

The three lots on Braddock Road in the Highview Addition to the City of Cumberland were purchased from John J. Reinhard Jr. and his wife, Mary D. Reinhard, Bangor, Me., and Michael D. Reinhard and his wife, Mary E. Reinhard, city.

Supervisors To Meet

District supervisors for Allegheny County Soil Conservation Service will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. in the Extension office at the Court House.

City Will Have Good Surplus To Prime Budget

Tax Base May Curb Debt Rate Boost

The City of Cumberland will have about $239,000 available as "surplus" in making up the 1962-1963 budget, according to a preliminary estimate made yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, financial consultant.

And Mr. Gibson added that an increase of approximately $2,000,000 in the tax base will mean that the debt service rate cannot rise more than three cents, and may be kept at a two-cent increase.

He said the surplus will be "approximately the same as last year," (when $239,000 was on hand to prime the fiscal pump) but "could be a few dollars less."

The surplus represents the sum of excess collections and unexpended appropriations and is a vital part of the budget which will be set in a few weeks. It will also tide the city over until taxes begin to come in late in September.

Base To Rise

Mr. Gibson said the city will probably use a tax base of from $84,500,000 to $84,700,000, which will be approximately $2,000,000 more than was used in setting last year's levy.

Debt service costs, which totaled $239,962 last year, will rise to $271,429.50 for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

An extra $35,000 in maturities will occur this year because of the change in the fiscal year made back in 1948.

Debt service costs will drop back next year and will keep dropping until 1977, when all bonds payable from the general fund mature.

The impact of the extra debt service costs will be lessened somewhat by the higher tax base and Mr. Gibson said that if it is possible to absorb some, the increase could be kept to two cents.

Has Been Dropping

Last year, the city used a tax rate of $1.54 for each $100 of assessable property.

This was spread between $1,249.8 for operating expenses, within two-tenths of a mill of the $1.25 legal limit, and $290.2 for debt service.

There is no legal limit on the amount to be levied to meet the cost of repaying principal and interest on the city's debt.

Debt service costs as reflected in the tax rate have been dropping steadily for some years as a result of the gradual increase in the tax base.

13 Youths Enlist In Air Force

Thirteen local and area men enlisted in the Air Force during July according to the local recruiter, TSgt. Albert J. Hammed and SSgt. Harold Harlow.

Enlisting from Cumberland were Lamar H. Martin, 510 Centre Street, Curtis W. Turley, 211 New Hampshire Avenue, Earl L. Hardman, 433 Chesnut Street, Donald E. Broome, Franklin E. Hartman, and Eugene L. Kalbaugh, 222 New Hampshire Avenue.

Others enlisting were Robert E. Friend, Westernport; Robert W. Peer, Ridgeley; Lloyd E. Harrison and David F. Kennedy, of the Flintstone area; and Gary Aldridge, Robert F. O'Neal and Ralph K. Pollock, all of Mt. Savage.

The youth are now at Lackland AFB, Texas for basic training.

Still Room For Others

Another group of youngsters is eagerly awaiting departure from Cumberland tomorrow morning for a camping trip to Seattle and return in small buses which carried a similar group to that state and other interesting places in the United States during June and July.

Victor McKay, tour director, last night said 13 youngsters will be ready to move out of Cumberland at 5:30 a. m. tomorrow.

He will be accompanied by two other drivers and adult counselors, Miss Nancy Sitter, a lay teacher at SS. Peter and Paul parochial school and Miss Evelyn Bright, librarian at Allegheny High School.

There is still plenty of room for other youngsters who might like to join in the cross-country trip which should cover about 8,100 miles.

Mr. McKay reported last night there is room for nine children.

On July 25 some 27 campers including adult counselors returned to Cumberland for a warm welcome by parents and friends.

Since their return the buses have been serviced and are ready for the trip across the nation, said the tour director.

State Park Attendance Falls Off

Attendance at state parks and recreation areas in Allegheny and Garrett counties was off last weekend, perhaps because of overcast weather which reduced the number of swimmers.

The Department of Forests and Parks said the number using facilities in the state was 99,706, about 5,000 fewer than for the same weekend of 1961 and about 20,000 fewer than during the previous weekend.

Attendance was up at Potomac State Forest in Garrett County from 75 on the weekend of July 22 to 115 on the weekend of July 29. Big Run was up from 1,618 to 2,711. Other attendance figures in the area, with previous week's attendance in parentheses:

Swallow Falls, 1,765 (2,380); Herrington Manor, 2,556 (3,840); New Germany, 1,818 (5,766); Dan's Mountain, 450 (595); Deep Creek Lake 3,995 (5,464).

235 Wedding Permits Sold Here In July

A total of 235 marriage licenses were issued last month at the Allegheny County Court House bringing the total number sold in 1962 to 1,397.

In July 1961, some 209 licenses were sold and the total number of licenses for the first seven months that year was 1,299.

B&O, Welding Firm Promise To Abate Noise

Meeting Held At City Hall

Officials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the firm which is welding rail here told city officials yesterday they would cooperate in reducing noise from the operation.

The pledge was made as Mayor Earl D. Chaney and City Engineer C. R. Nuzum and John C. Sullivan, attorney for a number of Offutt Street residents, met with railroad officials at the Queen City Station.

The railroad was represented by W. W. Frye, assistant division superintendent; J. R. Rymer, division engineer, and Paul Arnold, representing the Matista rail welding company.

All present, officials said, promised to do all possible to abate the noise from the operation which railroad officials said is performed by 25 men employed by Matista and eight B & O workers.

During the conference, there was a report that doors have been left open at the building where rails are sawed prior to welding. City officials said Mr. Arnold reported he would see that the doors remained closed.

According to the present schedule, the work will run into October, the city was told.

ARA Holds Up Funds For W.Va. Tourist Center

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Area Redevelopment Administration has decided to hold back on a $1.47 million grant to West Virginia for development of a tourist facility until the tourist potential of Pendleton and Pocahontas County can be determined.

The money was to go toward development of a facility at Sugar Grove where the Navy was building a giant radio-telescope. However, the Navy has scratched plans for the telescope.

A spokesman said, however, ARA and state officials are now discussing a plan to expand the tourist development program in the area. This would include the old logging railroad at Cass, Pendleton County, and the National Science Foundation's radio-astronomy center at Green Bank in Pocahontas County.

George Lavelle, Appalachian coordinator for the ARA and ARA counsel Thomas Harvey, met Tuesday with Gov. Barron and other state officials, to discuss what can be done about the situation.

Lavelle and Harvey and Robert Bowers, travel director of the State Commerce Department left Tuesday for a two - day trip through the area to continue the study of the area's tourist potential.
